Computational pool is a relatively recent entrant into the group of games played by computer agents It features a novel combination of properties that distinguish it from other such games including continuous action and state spaces uncertainty in execution a unique turn taking structure and of course an adversarial nature This combination leads to new challenges both in modeling and reasoning about the game and in designing agents for effective play We address the modeling challenges by presenting a model of generalized billiards games and showing that an equilibrium exists within this model To address the practical challenges of designing an agent we discuss CueCard our agent which won the 2008 computational pool tournament with a special focus on which new advancements made this agent successful The second portion of the dissertation focuses on a topic inspired by the computational pool domain that of execution skill In many AI settings an agent is comprised of both action planning and action execution components We first present experimental work in which we examine the relationship between the precision of the execution component the intelligence of the planning component and the overall success of the agent within our computational pool framework Our motivation lies in determining whether higher execution skill rewards more strategic playing Finally we present a method for modeling imperfect execution skill in normal form games and examine the effect that changing execution skill levels can have in these games We then study games in which players have imperfect execution skill and one player's true skill is not common knowledge In these settings the possibility arises of a player hustling or pretending to have lower execution skill than they actually have Focusing on repeated zero sum games we provide a hustle proof strategy this strategy guarantees a player the same payoff without knowledge of the opponents execution skill level as they could guarantee with knowledge of the opponent's true execution skill level Sports, Exercise, and Fitness Mary Beth Allen,2005-03-30 For reference librarians and researchers seeking information on sports and fitness this guide is an important first stop For collection development specialists it is an invaluable selection guide Allen describes and evaluates over 1 000 information sources on the complete spectrum of sports from basketball football and hockey to figure skating table tennis and weight training Focusing on English language works published between 1990 and the present the guide thoroughly covers traditional reference sources such as encyclopedias and bibliographies along with instructional sources in print formats online databases and Web sites To enable users in search of information on specific sports or fitness activities chapters are organized thematically according to broad type aquatic sports nautical sports precision and accuracy racket sports ice and snow sports ball sports cycling and so on with subcategories for such individual sports as soccer golf and yoga Within these categories works are further organized by type reference instructional and Web sites Billiards William Broadfoot,1896 147 Snooker Drills and Exercises Andrew Highfield,David Horrix,2017-12-15 147 Snooker Drills and Exercises will help players of all standards to improve their game

It presents a range of practice routines that covers all aspects of a player's game. Some are more advanced than others, allowing the player working on a particular area of their game to pick out the exercises they feel will help them most. The routines become more difficult as the pages go on so the beginner can work through them and use them to set targets to make their practice competitive. For coaches, the routines will assist in giving variety in lessons and helping to set targets in lessons.
