How Tax Policy and Incentives Affect Foreign Direct Investment Jacques P. Morisset, Neda Pirnia, 2000 Tax incentives neither make up for serious deficiencies in a country's investment environment nor generate the desired externalities But when other factors such as infrastructure transport costs and political and economic stability are more or less equal the taxes in one location may have a significant effect on investors' choices This effect varies however depending on the tax instrument used the characteristics of the multinational company and the relationship between the tax systems of the home and recipient countries Foreign Direct Investment Leena Ajit Kaushal, 2019-04-29 This research based book offers insight to the changing perspectives regarding FDI from traditional theory to new theory from local to global link and from opportunity to responsibility Readers will understand the various factors determinants and theories that underpin the presence of firms in the global economy The author illustrates by way of case studies specific implications of FDI policy and practice on issues like ecology and environment technology transfer labor market and relevance of further liberalization policies in FDI in the context of Indian economy The coverage for such an important theme is too vast to cover in a single volume therefore this volume restricts its analysis to a select few themes in hopes that this endeavor will trigger an ongoing debate on myriad aspects and concerns of FDI on countries like India Research Anthology on Macroeconomics and the Achievement of Global Stability Management Association, Information instability As the pandemic comes to a close it is essential to examine global economies in order to achieve and maintain global stability By maintaining global stability the world may be prepared for future economic shocks The Research Anthology on Macroeconomics and the Achievement of Global Stability discusses the emerging opportunities challenges and strategies within the field of macroeconomics It features advancements in the field that encourage global economic stability Covering topics such as Islamic banking international trade and Econophysics this major reference work is an ideal resource for economists government leaders and officials business leaders and executives finance professionals students and educators of higher education librarians researchers and academicians

Tax Concessions and Foreign Direct Investment in the Eastern Caribbean Currency Union Rishi Goyal, Ms. Jingqing Chai, 2008-11-01 Tax concessions have been employed as a central component of the development strategy in the small island states comprising the Eastern Caribbean Currency Union This paper compares the costs of concessions in terms of revenues forgone with the benefits in terms of increased foreign direct investment The costs are very large while the benefits appear to be marginal at best Forgone tax revenues range between 9.12 and 16 percent of GDP per year whereas total foreign direct investment does not appear to depend on concessions A rethinking of the use of concessions in the region is needed urgently

Foreign Direct Investment in South Asia Pravakar Sahoo, Geethanjali Nataraj, Ranjan Kumar Dash, 2013-10-01 During the 1990s the governments of South Asian countries acted as facilitators to attract FDI As a result the inflow of FDI increased However to become an attractive FDI destination as China Singapore or Brazil South Asia has to improve the local conditions of doing business This book based on research that blends theory empirical evidence and policy asks and attempts to answer a few core questions relevant to FDI policy in South Asian countries Which major reforms have succeeded What are the factors that influence FDI inflows What has been the impact of FDI on macroeconomic performance Which policy priorities reforms needed to boost FDI are pending These questions and answers should interest policy makers academics and all those interested in FDI in the South Asian region and in India Pakistan Bangladesh Sri Lanka and Pakistan

Sussangkarn, Yung Chul Park, Sung Jin Kang, 2011-02-25 This book covers nine countries of ASEAN and the East Asian area including major Asian countries and compares their respective policies to attract Foreign Direct Investments FDI Through comparative study of FDI promotion policies this book will give policy makers in the area of FDI promotion an overview and comparison of the FDI policies of other countries In addition researchers at graduate post graduate or professional level will gain from the econometric methodology and detailed definitions of various spillover effects horizontal and vertical which will be beneficial to their research In addition to FDI policy comparison this book focuses on the various spillover effects of FDI It separates it into categories own productivity effects intra industry spillover effects and inter industry spillover effects forward and backward linkage effects While most other studies have only taken econometric tests on own productivity and intra industry spillovers a key advantage to this book is that it also covers the separate effects of inter industry linkages Through policy comparison and econometric tests on various spillover effects on economic growth employment and exports this book will give policy makers and researchers an innovative and constructive guide to FDI OECD Tax Policy Studies Corporate Tax Incentives for Foreign Direct Investment OECD, 2001-09-10 This report examines the currently highly topical issue of corporate tax incentives for foreign direct investment FDI The ability to offer an internationally competitive tax system is increasingly seen today as a determinative factor influencing Foreign Direct Investment Dale R. Weigel, 1997-01-01 The report reviews lessons from the International Finance Corporation's IFC investment and advisory experience in the developing world which show the interactions between policy frameworks and the volume and structure of foreign direct investments FDI Case studies show how the Corporation promotes successful project structures and regulatory changes as it tries to attain the strongest development impact for investments In developing countries FDI has flowed mainly into manufacturing and processing industries In the past investment attractiveness had been closely linked to possession of natural resources or a large domestic market while production and trade globalization competitiveness as a location for investment and exporting have become the main determinants of attractiveness Sources of FDI in the past came almost exclusively from industrial countries though recently those sources have widened emerging from developing countries in their own right and for their own regions IFC as an international initiative to promote FDI in developing countries is liable to promote bilateral trade agreements bilateral and multilateral financial institutions and investment promotion programs its advisory role may vary from diagnostic studies overviewing constraints to FDI to investment policy studies giving specific solutions on either changes or strategies The study further looks at how policy environment is set and at finding investor opportunities through project financing largely structured as joint ventures The inherent fragile nature of joint ventures restricts foreign ownership thus limiting project structures however careful project design has led to successful operations by ensuring management and financial arrangements Still to maximize benefits an unfinished agenda of policy reform remains and as more countries open to FDI this integration will lead to an overall increase in FDI flows Oil and Gas Law
