Taxation In Modern China:

Taxation in Modern China Donald J. S. Brean, 2013-10-23 Taxation in Modern China is concerned with tax and public financial issues arising in China's economic transition. The contributors among the leading authorities on public finance, transitional economics, and policy reform in China direct attention to the largest and most comprehensive fiscal reform program in modern history. The essays collected here cover the main institutional, intergovernmental, and industrial issues and address the long-term challenges facing China as well as transitional changes. The Guangdong Model and Taxation in China Jin-A Kang, 2025-10-01 This book explores the formation, development, and characteristics of modern China's finance, focusing especially on Guangdong province as a case study to illustrate both the macro-level trends and the micro-level reality. The chronological range of this book is mainly from the late Qing period to the early Republican Era, ending in 1937 when the full-scale Second Sino-Japanese War broke out. After the concept of modern finance was introduced to China for the first time in the late Qing period, the efforts to build modern finance continued in the Republican Era, both nationally and locally. But this process was interrupted by the outbreak of the war against Japan in 1937 and, having been derailed, did not subsequently recover due to the subsequent civil war between the Kuomintang and the Chinese Communist Party. This interrupted process of financial modernization was resumed with Reform and Opening up launched in 1978. Therefore, in order to illustrate the structural transformation and persistent characteristics of China's fiscal system, this book also includes discussions of the early Qing period and current Chinese finance. Taxation in ASEAN and China Nolan

Sharkey, 2012-05-31 China and the ASEAN region have risen rapidly to a position of immense economic significance in the global economy. Academics, policy makers, and businesses are all keen to understand more about taxation in China and ASEAN, and this work seeks to address this key issue by providing a comprehensive overview of the many often mentioned but little understood challenges of doing business in the region. Traversing a wide range of regional issues and jurisdictions, topics covered include the role of DTAs in regional integration, the impact of social institutions on tax corruption, and its causes, economic development and taxation, and the use of education in developing systems. Case studies are taken from countries such as China, Vietnam, Hong Kong, Singapore, the Philippines, Malaysia, and Indonesia. Drawing on the results of these discussions, the book also sheds light on the question of whether different taxing institutions are needed in the region. Gathering together a cross-disciplinary group of eminent scholars, this work will be of great interest to all students and scholars of Asian economics, Asian finance, and taxation in general. Taxation Without Representation in
