Ganesan, C. R. K. Reddy, K. Eswaran, Bhavanath Jha, 2023-08-11 The term seaweed represents an assemblage of a diverse group of photosynthetic aquatic plants that are exceptionally unique in their form function structure and biochemical composition In Far East Asian countries seaweeds are popularly utilised in human food preparations in addition to being used as a source of raw material for the extraction of industrially important phycocolloids and agro based products More recently there has been growing interest in the application of seaweed ingredients in beauty and novelty food products nutraceuticals bioplastics and beverages among others as well as its potential as a source for biofuels Seaweed though it is a primitive plant has complex morphological structure meaning species level identification of an individual seaweed is a difficult task This volume describes the identification characteristics of 256 seaweed species collected from the south east coast of India comprising 71 species of green algae chlorophyceae 46 species of brown algae phaeophyceae and 139 species of red algae rhodophyceae Key taxonomic characteristics detailed here allow the confirmation of identification of different kinds of seaweed As such the Edible Seaweeds of the World Leonel Pereira, 2016-01-08 Seaweed is used in many countries for very different purposes directly as food especially in sushi as a source of phycocolloids extraction of compounds with antiviral antibacterial or antitumor activity and as biofertilizers About four million tons of seaweed are harvested annually worldwide Of the various species known less than 20 account Fourteenth International Seaweed Symposium A.R.O. Chapman, Murray T. Brown, Marc Lahaye, 2012-12-06 Industrial seaweed use started in Brittany in the XVII century Today 700 species have been identified along 1000 km of shoreline producing 10 million tons of biomass In the Fourteenth International Seaweed Symposium the latest developments in the area are discussed The blending of molecular biology with traditional taxonomy is improving our understanding of phylogeny and species relationships among many of the important algae A new generation of biologically based management models is gradually incorporating field testing concepts from ecological theory and principles from population biology Prediction is being improved and an appropriate balance is being struck between commercial exploitation and the preservation of wild seaweed resources Cell and tissue culture of seaweeds is entering the mass production phase Field farming is now entering the large scale production area New biologically active compounds are being described obtained from algae and new tools for the characterisation of phytocolloids are described Microalgal blooms and toxins are also experiencing a flourish of new results Encyclopedia of Marine Biotechnology Se-Kwon Kim, 2020-08-04 A keystone reference that presents both up to date research and the far reaching applications of marine biotechnology Featuring contributions from 100 international experts in the field this five volume encyclopedia provides comprehensive coverage of topics in marine biotechnology It starts with the history of the field and delivers a complete overview of marine biotechnology It then offers information on marine organisms bioprocess techniques marine natural products biomaterials bioenergy and algal biotechnology The encyclopedia also covers marine food and biotechnology applications in areas such as pharmaceuticals cosmeceuticals and nutraceuticals Each topic in Encyclopedia of Marine Biotechnology is followed by 10 30

Sixteenth International Seaweed Symposium Joanna M. Kain (Jones), Murray T. Brown, Marc Lahaye, 2012-12-06 International Seaweed Symposia have been held at three year intervals for nearly 50 years In the early days they formed the only international forum for marine phycologists and although there are now frequent phycological meetings their value has not diminished both because of the increased commercial importance of seaweeds and because of the unique mix of disciplines that the meetings attract Industrialists interact with chemists and biologists with the common aim of understanding seaweeds The main development during the last few decades has been an increase in the cultivation of algae as natural stocks of the useful species become depleted Of the first ten Symposia nine were held in western countries where seaweed cultivation is almost non existent It is appropriate that the last two have been held where algal exploitation is relatively big business The popularity of the Symposia with scientists has meant that the standard of presentation has always been high Many participants from the countries with the highest economic involvement with seaweeds frequently publish in their own languages so their contributions give considerable additional interest to the Proceedings The Philippines with its extensive coastline much of which supports seaweed exploitation and cultivation was an excellent venue for the latest Symposium The papers presented in this volume reflect the continuing world wide interest in marine algae and range from results using cutting edge laboratory techniques to simple but important field observations

Marine Science Into the New Millennium ,2004 Handbook of Marine Macroalgae Se-Kwon Kim, 2011-11-04 The Handbook of Macroalgae Biotechnology and Applied Phycology describes the biological biotechnological and the industrial applications of seaweeds Vast research into the cultivation of seaweeds is currently being undertaken but there is a lack of methodological strategies in place to develop novel drugs from these sources This book aims to rectify this situation providing an important review of recent advances and potential new applications for macroalgae Focusing on the chemical and structural nature of seaweeds the book brings the potentially valuable bioactive nature to the fore Novel compounds isolated from seaweeds are reviewed to provide an invaluable reference for anyone working in the field
