Country houses and the British Empire, 1700-1930 Stephanie Barczewski, 2017-02-01 Country houses and the British empire 1700 1930 assesses the economic and cultural links between country houses and the Empire between the eighteenth and twentieth centuries Using sources from over fifty British and Irish archives it enables readers to better understand the impact of the empire upon the British metropolis by showing both the geographical variations and its different cultural manifestations Barczewski offers a rare scholarly analysis of the history of country houses that goes beyond an architectural or biographical study and recognises their importance as the physical embodiments of imperial wealth and reflectors of imperial cultural influences In so doing she restores them to their true place of centrality in British culture over the last three centuries and provides fresh insights into the role of the Empire in the British metropolis

Food in Nineteenth-Century British History Ian Miller, 2025-07-25 A curious phenomenon occurred in British food writing from around the 1860s Publishers began printing books dedicated to specific meals Breakfast Luncheons Afternoon Tea Dinners Until this time most cookbooks had been hefty tomes containing hundreds of pages of recipes but the new recipe books were slimmer and more accessible catering for a broader readership The appearance of focused cookbooks reveals the growing influence of advanced printing technologies and rising literacy levels combined with changes in social life and class relations that coalesced around food granting mealtimes great importance The sources reprinted in this volume were produced in response to the changing social dynamics that accompanied industrialisation urbanisation and socio economic modernisation
