The Fragmentation Of The Proper Name And The Crisi:

CrossRoutes, the Meanings of "race" for the 21st Century Paola Boi, 2003 This collection reflects the still urgent project of historical recuperation as well as an examination of literary representations and other cultural manifestations of the Black Diaspora Disciplinary work within the boundaries of African American Studies has been enhanced by more general considerations of the history of race and racism in globalized contexts The articles assembled here reflect recent empirical research as well as challenging theoretical considerations Contributions address particular formations of racialized modernity owed to the impact of the Atlantic slave trade and slavery and thus broaden the approach to the Middle Passage to improve our understanding of it as a constitutive transatlantic phenomenon in the widest possible sense Speaking the Past Alicia Otano, 2004 Child perspective is a symbolic narrative strategy that designs multilayered possibilities for meaning in ethnic writing This book positions Asian American bildungsromane in the context of American writing about children reading them through the lens of their narrators the oftentimes dual child adult perspective to examine how narrative point of view nuances and shapes issues of personal ethnic and national positioning This approach privileges the authors narrative choices and engagement with genre revealing how these critical writerly decisions construct texts that signify on multiple levels and dialogue productively with other texts Their interpretation and creative negotiation of the key elements of narrative perspective lead us to uncover aspects which are constitutive of the successful manipulation of narrative voice The texts analyzed in this study demonstrate the flexibility of this narrative technique and its usefulness as a critical tool though which important thematic issues family race culture war assimilation and language may be deployed Reading the way Asian American texts manipulate child perspective positions these texts within developing critical paradigms and allows the reader to examine the manner in which they influence the development of American literature and the theory that reads it

Finance and the Good Society Robert J. Shiller, 2013-04-21 Nobel Prize winning economist explains why we need to reclaim finance for the common good The reputation of the financial industry could hardly be worse than it is today in the painful aftermath of the 2008 financial crisis New York Times best selling economist Robert Shiller is no apologist for the sins of finance he is probably the only person to have predicted both the stock market bubble of 2000 and the real estate bubble that led up to the subprime mortgage meltdown But in this important and timely book Shiller argues that rather than condemning finance we need to reclaim it for the common good He makes a powerful case for recognizing that finance far from being a parasite on society is one of the most powerful tools we have for solving our common problems and increasing the general well being We need more financial innovation not less and finance should play a larger role in helping society achieve its goals Challenging the public and its leaders to rethink finance and its role in society Shiller argues that finance should be defined not merely as the manipulation of money or the management of risk but as the stewardship of society's assets He explains how people in financial careers from CEO investment manager and banker to insurer lawyer and regulator can and do manage protect and increase these assets He describes how finance has historically contributed to the good of society through inventions such as insurance mortgages savings accounts and pensions and argues that we need to envision new ways to rechannel financial creativity to benefit society as a whole Ultimately Shiller shows how society can once again harness the power of finance for the greater good The Seattle Review ,2006 Naming Theatre J. Frieze,2009-10-16 Reading a range of work from the US and UK over the last two decades this is an innovative study of theatre s growing obsession with technologies and effects of naming How does theatre reflect and intervene in naming practices across domains such as philosophy computing journalism anthropology advertising military training and genetics Framing Solidarities in Times of Multiple Crises Mojca Pajnik,Helge Schwiertz,Donatella della Porta,Franz Bernhardt,Marko Ribać,2025-07-04 This open access book explores how polycrises not only generate new forms of inequality and social exclusion but also inspire new political activism solidarity and citizenship It examines how social movement organizations frame their responses to exclusionary policies and regimes and sheds light on their strategies for mobilization By focusing on contemporary movements and their framing of social issues in times of crisis the book offers valuable insights into social movement studies urban studies political communication and frame analysis It also engages with broader theoretical and public discussions on solidarity and citizenship This book is ideal for scholars and students interested in social movements political struggles and fields such as migration housing and care Crisis, Rupture and Anxiety Will Jackson,Bob Jeffrey,Mattia Mariano,2011-12-14 Crisis Rupture and Anxiety An Interdisciplinary Examination of Contemporary and Historical Human Challenges brings together a range of original contributions that seek to critically interrogate the concept of crisis a seemingly omnipresent and defining metonym of our times Both international and interdisciplinary in perspective the leading doctoral scholars and early career researchers represented in this volume unsettle hegemonic notions of crisis and possible remedies by exploring Chinese Politics as Fragmented Authoritarianism Kjeld Erik Brødsgaard,2016-10-04 This book explores how far the concept of fragmented authoritarianism remains valid as the key concept for understanding how the Chinese political process works It contrasts fragmented authoritarianism which places bureaucratic bargaining at the centre of policy making arguing that the goals and interests of the implementing agencies have to be incorporated into a policy if implementation is to be secured with other characterisations of China s political process Individual chapters consider fragmented authoritarianism at work in a range of key policy areas including energy issues climate change and environmental management financial reform and civil military relations The book also explores policy making at the national provincial city and local levels debates how far the model of fragmented authoritarianism is valid in its current form or whether modifications are needed and discusses whether the system of policy making and implementation is overcomplicated unwieldy and ineffective or whether it is constructive in enabling widespread consultation and scope for imagination flexibility and variation Theoretical Schools and Circles in the Twentieth-Century

Humanities Marina Grishakova, Silvi Salupere, 2015-04-10 Schools and circles have been a major force in twentieth century intellectual movements. They fostered circulation of ideas within and between disciplines, thus altering the shape of intellectual inquiry. This volume offers a new perspective on theoretical schools in the humanities, both as generators of conceptual knowledge and as cultural phenomena. The structuralist, semiotic, phenomenological, and hermeneutical schools and circles have had a deep impact on various disciplines, ranging from literary studies to philosophy, historiography, and sociology. The volume focuses on a set of loosely interrelated groups with a strong literary, linguistic, and semiotic component, but extends to the fields of philosophy and history, the interdisciplinary conjunctions arising from a sense of conceptual kinship. It includes chapters on unstudied or less studied groups, such as the Tel Aviv School of poetics and semiotics or the research group Poetics and Hermeneutics. The volume presents a significant supplement to the standard historical accounts of literary critical and related theory in the twentieth century. It enhances and complicates our understanding of the twentieth century intellectual and academic history by showing schools and circles in the state of germination, dialogue, controversy, or decline in their respective historical and institutional settings, while reaching simultaneously beyond those dense settings to the new cultural and ideological situations of the twenty-first century.

Communicable Crises Deborah E. Gibbons, 2007-03-01 This volume makes a significant contribution to the crisis management literature. It also adds to our inchoate understanding of network governance, temporary teams, and task forces, communities of practice, alliances, and virtual organizations. It hints that the distinction between networks and organizations may be somewhat spurious, a matter of degree rather than kind. Indeed, it seems that this distinction may derive more from mental models in which we consistently reify organizations than anything else. Finally, the volume emphasizes the functional importance of leadership in network governance and puzzles over its provision in the absence of hierarchy. As such, it adds to the contributions made by Marc Granovetter (1973), John Seeley Brown and Paul Duguid (1991), Bart Nooteboom (2000), Paul J. DiMaggio (2001), John Arquilla and David Ronfeldt (2001), Laurence O. Toole and Ken Meier (2004), and others, as well as Nancy Roberts' seminal work on wicked problems and hastily formed teams. The result is a product the editor and the contributors can be proud of. Overall, it is one that will edify, surprise, and delight its readers.
