Frontiers of Taste Zane Ma Rhea, 2016-07-28 This book provides a critical multiperspective sociohistorical analysis of the role of food in postcolonial Indigenous British and French settler relations Drawing on archival resources from Australian explorers settlers and nation builders the book argues that contemporary issues of food security sovereignty and sustainability have been significantly shaped by the colonial impact on human foodways The author goes on to enhance readers understanding of how contact between inhabitants and newcomers was shaped and informed by food and how these engagements established a modus vivendi that carries through to the present day Based on the assessment of archival records it uses a comparative socio historical lens to investigate contact between Indigenous and non Indigenous people where the exchange of food or knowledge about food took place It finds that the transfer of food and food knowledge was multifaceted and the flow of food knowledge occurred in both directions although these exchanges were neither symmetrical nor balanced It also analyzes and discusses food as a focal point of activity The final chapter offers an assessment of the potential for the development of a sustainable nutritious tasty Australian cuisine that moves beyond the tropes and stereotypical narratives embedded into colonial Indigenous settler relations in the context of food If this was accepted by all Australians it would allow opportunities to be created for Indigenous Australians to develop food products for the market that are sustainable economically viable and developed in ways that are culturally appropriate
