up to eight thousand taste buds to inform us when something is sweet salty sour or bitter or as we usually think of it delicious or revolting Tastes differ from one region to the next and no two people's seem to be the same But why is it that some people think maple syrup is too sweet while others can t get enough What makes certain people love Roquefort cheese and others think it smells like feet Why do some people think cilantro tastes like soap John Prescott tackles this conundrum in Taste Matters an absorbing exploration of why we eat and seek out the foods that we do Prescott surveys the many factors that affect taste including genetic inheritance maternal diet cultural traditions and physiological influences He also delves into what happens when we eat for pleasure instead of nutrition paying particularly attention to affluent Western societies where he argues people increasingly view food selection as a sensory or intellectual pleasure rather than a means of survival As obesity and high blood pressure are on the rise along with a number of other health issues changes in the modern diet are very much to blame and Prescott seeks to answer the question of why and how our tastes often lead us to eat foods that are not the best for our health Compelling and accessible this timely book paves the way for a healthier and more sustainable understanding of taste Consuming Habits Jordan Goodman, Andrew Sherratt, Paul E. of Shopping was a Library Journal Best in Reference selection for 2022 Shopping emerged as a special pleasure and problem during the period between the revolutionary upheavals of the late 18th century and the opening salvoes of the Great War New shops new products new class and gender ideologies new standards of comfort and hygiene and rising living standards for some meant that people especially women spent more time shopping and engaging in consumer oriented activities beyond the walls of the shop At the same time social commentators local and national authorities economists and many husbands became concerned about the dangers of shopping believing that the department store was emancipating women and destroying society in the process This volume explores shopping in the 19th century as a varied and embedded social political economic and cultural activity It draws out the continuities with earlier periods as well as examining how the department store came to be seen as both symbol and generator of profound economic social and cultural change A Cultural History of Shopping in the Age of Revolution and Empire presents an overview of the period with themes addressing This book explores the origins history and organisation of the international system of narcotic drug control with a specific focus on heroin cannabis and cocaine It argues that the century long quest to eliminate the production trade in and use of narcotic drugs has been a profound failure The statistics produced by the international and domestic narcotic drug control agencies point to a sustained expansion of the drug trade despite the imposition of harsh criminal sanctions against those engaged as producers traffickers or consumers in the narcotic drugs market The roots of this major international policy failure are traced back to the outdated ideology of prohibition which is shown to be counterproductive utopian and a fundamentally inadequate basis for narcotic drug policy in the twenty first century Prohibition championed by many US policy makers has left the international community poorly positioned to confront those changes to the drug trade and drug markets that have resulted from globalisation Moreover prohibition based approaches are causing more harm than good as is demonstrated through reference to issues such as HIV AIDS the environment conflict development and social justice As the drug control system approaches its centenary there are signs that the global consensus on narcotic drug prohibition is fracturing Some European and South American states are pushing for a new approach based on regulation decriminalisation and harm reduction But those seeking to revise prohibition strategies faces entrenched resistance primarily by the U S This important text argues that successive American governments have pursued a contradictory approach acting decisively against the narcotic drug trade at home and abroad while at the same time working with drug traffickers and producer states when it is in America's strategic interest As a result US policy approaches emerge as a decisive factor in accounting for the failure of prohibition Tea and the Tea-Table in Eighteenth-Century England Vol 1 Markman Ellis, Richard Coulton, Ben Dew, Matthew Mauger, 2024-08-01 This four volume reset collection takes as its starting point the earliest substantial descriptions of tea as a commodity in the mid seventeenth century and ends in the early nineteenth century with two key events the discovery of tea plants in Assam in 1823 and the dissolution of the
