Taurine 2 Basic And Clinical Aspects:

Taurine 2 Ryan J. Huxtable, Junichi Azuma, Kinya Kuriyama, Masao Nakagawa, Akemichi Baba, 2013-11-21 This volume comprises the edited proceedings of the International Taurine Symposium held in Osaka Japan in June 1995 as a Satellite Symposium of the 15th Biennial of the International Society for Neurochemistry This Taurine Symposium was the Meeting latest in a series held since 1975 at approximately two year intervals by an informal group of international researchers It attracted contributions from 20 countries ranging from Armenia via Finland and Spain to the United States Some 121 participants attended The Symposium was organized and chaired by Junichi Azuma University of Osaka Other members of the Organizing Committee in Japan consisted of Kinya Kuriyama and Masao Nakagawa both from the Kyoto Prefectural University of Medicine and Akemichi Baba from Osaka University The Committee had to contend with the disaster of the Kobe earthquake which struck on January 21 The epicenter was only around 25 miles from the meeting site and the quake demolished the home of one Committee member Despite this unnaturally natural handicap the participants experienced a superbly organized meeting one which more than maintained the high social and scientific standards established for this series In his Welcome Message Dr Azuma listed a threefold objective for the Symposium To provide a forum for the interdisciplinary exchange of information on taurine to give an opportunity for renewing old friendships and making new friends and to promote cooperation among participants from around the world

Mechanisms of Lymphocyte Activation and Immune Regulation VI Sudhir Gupta, J. John Cohen, 2013-06-29 Since programmed cell death was first described in insects in 1964 and apoptosis was described in 1972 rapid progress has been made in understanding the basic mechanisms and genes regulating programmed cell death and apoptosis In addition defects in various genes regulating programmed cell death have been delineated in several experimental models of human diseases This volume surveys various aspects of these rapidly developing areas of research in programmed cell death apoptosis This volume should be of interest to basic immunologists and molecular biologists The volume begins with a historical perspective of cell death The remainder of the volume is divided into four different parts Part I deals with the signaling pathways in apoptosis including cell cycle control of apoptosis role of ceramide in apoptosis role of antibody signaling and biochemical regulation of apoptosis The mechanisms for recognition of apoptotic lymphocytes by macrophages are also reviewed Part II examines the role of various genes that regulate apoptosis including the role of Fas and FasL and other TNF family members in apoptosis and homeostatic regulation of immune response. Recently described splice variants and their influence on apoptosis are also reviewed and the role of the members of the Bcl-2 family in apoptosis is discussed in detail. Part III reviews various aspects of apoptosis in B lymphocytes including mechanisms that regulate apoptosis survival of B lymphocytes and the regulation of Fas mediated apoptosis in B lymphocytes.

Bioactive Compounds from Marine Foods Blanca Hernández-Ledesma, Miguel Herrero, 2013-09-30. Part of the IFT Press series, this book reviews the myriad published information on bioactive components derived from marine foods enabling researchers and product developers to select appropriate functional ingredients for new products. Chapters cover foods and food ingredients from both animal and plant marine sources focusing on those which demonstrate biological properties and whose constituent compounds have been isolated and identified as potentially active. This book further addresses the biological activities of PUFAs, Polyunsaturated fatty acids, oils, phospholipids, proteins, and peptides, fibres, carbohydrates, chitosans, vitamins, and minerals, fucoxanthin, polyphenols, phytosterols, taurine, amongst others. These components found in a variety of marine derived foods have been demonstrated to have preventative properties with regard to hypertension, oxidative stress, inflammation, cardiovascular diseases, cancer, and other human diseases. Extraction methods and analysis techniques are also addressed. Intended for food scientists, food technologists, and food engineers in academia, industry, and government, this book reviews the substantial quantity of current research in this fast moving and commercially valuable sector of food and nutrition science.

Toward Anti-Adhesion Therapy for Microbial Diseases Itzhak Kahane, Itzhak Ofek, 2012-12-06. The emergence of pathogens resistant to conventional antimicrobial agents has forced us to intensify the efforts in search for new approaches to prevent infectious diseases. Such a direction was indicated in studies over the last two decades showing that adhesion of pathogens primarily via glycoconjugate or protein receptors of the host tissue is crucial for the infectious process. Moreover, it was found that infection can be prevented by blocking adhesion of the pathogen to mucosal surfaces of the host. The various aspects of interference with the process of microbial adhesion as a way of preventing diseases were the subject of the Bat Sheva Seminar Towards Anti Adhesion Therapy of Microbial Infectious Diseases held in Zichron Yaakov, Israel, February 25 to March 1, 1996. A major aim of the Bat Sheva de Rothschild Foundation for the Advancement of Science in Israel, which sponsors a series of seminars, ours among them, is to provide the necessary tools and settings for international forums and exposure of young scientists and promising students to the state of the art of the field. This goal has been achieved during the week's discussions and its major aspects are presented in this compendium. The seminar's participants as well as the readers of this book thank the founder and Foundation for their support. This book includes the major themes of this rapidly growing area. However, by no means do we intend to cover every bit and piece in it. The book's first section deals with the lectin-sugar interactions and their inhibitors.

from the steel mills and industries of old to an age of computers and biotechnology as evidenced by the new Biotechnology Center of the University of Pittsburgh where a lunch and tour were provided for interested participants. On the tour the participants got to see the mix of projects ranging from molecular biology to clinical projects studying membrane oxygenators, ventricular assist devices, oxygen carriers, and more, representing the forefront of research on oxygen delivery systems to tissue.

Handbook of Venoms and Toxins of Reptiles Stephen P. Mackessy, 2021-05-24. A decade after publication of the first edition, Handbook of Venoms and Toxins of Reptiles responds to extensive changes in the field of toxinology to endure as the most comprehensive review of reptile venoms on the market. The six sections of this new edition, which has nearly doubled in size, complement the original handbook by presenting current information from many of the leading researchers and physicians in toxinology, with topics ranging from functional morphology, evolution, and ecology to crystallography, omics technologies, drug discovery, and more. With the recent recognition by the World Health Organization of snakebite as a neglected tropical disease, the section on snakebite has been expanded and includes several chapters dealing with the problem broadly and with new technologies, and the promises these new approaches may hold to counter the deleterious effects of envenomation. This greatly expanded handbook offers a unique resource for biologists, biochemists, toxicologists, physicians, clinicians, and epidemiologists, as well as informed laypersons interested in the biology of venomous reptiles, the biochemistry and molecular biology of venoms, and the effects and treatment of human envenomation.

Neuroprotective Agents William Slikker, Russell J. Andrews, Bruce Trembly, 2003. The sixth in this series of Annals volumes brings together clinical and basic science researchers from many countries and disciplines in a common forum to address various approaches to neuroprotection. Topics covered include the following: clinical trials, clinical application of neuroprotective approaches, NMDA receptors as mediators of neurotoxicity and neuroprotection, models, mediators, and mechanisms of neurotoxicity and neuroprotection, dietary supplements as neuroprotectants, oxidative stress, and approaches to neuroprotection, mitochondria as a target of neurotoxicity and neuroprotection, and genomic approaches. The 35 papers and 10 posters are taken from the Sixth International Conference on Neuroprotective Agents held in September 2002 in South Carolina.
