Tcell Signaling Of Macrophage Activation:

T-cell Signaling of Macrophage Activation Robert D. Stout, Jill Suttles, 1995-01-01 Describes the progress that has been made in the understanding of how macrophages are activated to display inflammatory and effector function beginning with a definition of what is meant by macrophage activation and progressing through the LPS plus IFN gamma model for macrophage activation to the unraveling of how T cells may interact with and activate effector function in antigen presenting macrophages Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Genetic and Epigenetic Control on Immune Responses Regulating Molecules in Cancer Development, Progression, and Treatment

Katherine Chiappinelli, Alejandro Villagra, Lidia Karabon, 2024-10-16 In line with recent evidence the development of cancer has been described as uncontrolled cell growth that results from gradual accumulation of genetic and epigenetic alterations involving aberrations in oncogenes tumor suppressor genes and defects in genes engaged in DNA repair As a result cancer cells acquire a neoplastic phenotype and tumor associated antigens TAAs are presented on their surface These target structures should be recognized by cells of the immune system However a sequence of events at the genetic and epigenetic level disturb immune cells and in consequence make them unable to eliminate cancer cells Both innate and adaptive immunity are mobilized against cancer cells In response to the appearance of cells with malignant transformation NK cells release perforin and granzyme causing direct cytolysis of the target cells They can also secrete pro inflammatory cytokines and in that way enhance the anticancer response The activity of NK cells is regulated by a variety of activating and inhibitory receptors including NKG2D KIR CD94 NKG2 heterodimers and natural cytotoxicity receptors TNF family ligands as well as co stimulatory receptors which recognize related molecules on target cells A fundamental trigger of the anticancer immune response is the recognition of TAAs by T cells via the major histocompatibility complex MHC which should be followed by signals from co stimulatory molecules Full activation of T lymphocytes requires a third signal provided by the presence of cytokines and this leads to cell proliferation differentiation and secretion of chemokines and cytokines The effect is to drive the clonal expansion of the T cells directed against TAAs and to recruit other immune effector cells in order to enhance immune defense

Miossec, W. van den Berg, G. Firestein, 1998-07-21 Rheumatoid arthritis RA is the most common and most severe form of inflammatory arthritis The pathogenesis of RA has been the subject of intense research for several decades The prevailing hypotheses have changed over the years and have attempted to incorporate the most recent data Although T cells represent an important component of the cells which infiltrate the joint synovium their contribution at a late stage of the disease remains a matter of debate The goal of this book is to outline the major arguments and data suggesting that T cells may or may not be central players in the pathogenesis of chronic RA While each of the editors and authors has his her own bias as will be clear by reading the respective chapters our hope is that the readers will enjoy a complete and balanced view of the critical questions and experiments This is not just an intellectual exercise since the direction of future therapeutic interventions depends heavily on how one interprets the pathogenesis of RA and the contribution of T cells

Signal Transduction in Leukocytes Pramod M. Lad, John S. Kaptein, Ching-Kow Lin, 1995-11-27

Signal Transduction in Leukocytes presents important principles and various aspects of cellular regulation in leukocytes The book discusses receptor structure and signaling emphasizing cytokine receptors and the T cell and B cell antigen receptors It investigates the role of the heterotrimeric G proteins and small G proteins as transducers Authorities in each field cover a wide range of topics They explore propagation of signaling cascades through second messengers and serine threonine kinases the initiation of signaling from the B and T cell antigen receptors by tyrosine phosphorylation and protein recruitment and the role of signaling in cell cell interactions and the regulation of the cell cycle The book outlines the relationship of receptor signaling to inflammatory reactions of neutrophils eosinophils and macrophages
