their communities and social groups humans tend to ignore new information unless it fits their existing worldview Thus facts alone even if discussed in detail typically fail to open minds and create change In a world in need of graduates who can adapt to new information and situations we need to renew our educational commitment to producing flexible and independent thinkers In Teaching Change Jos Antonio Bowen argues that education needs to be redesigned to take into account how human thinking behaviors bias and change really work Drawing on new research Bowen explores how we can create better conditions for learning that focus less on teachers and content and more on students and process He also examines student psychology history assumptions anxiety and bias and advocates for education to focus on a new 3Rs relationships resilience and reflection Finally he suggests explicit learning designs to foster the ability to think for yourself The case for a liberal by which Bowen means liberating education has never been stronger but he says it needs to be redesigned to achieve the goal of creating lifelong learners and citizens capable of divergent and independent thinking With an expansive and powerful argument Teaching Change combines elegant and gripping explanations of recent and wide ranging research from biology economics education and neuroscience with hundreds of practical suggestions for individual teachers Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications ,1998-07

Changing Teaching, Changing Times Jonathan Clark, Cedric J. Linder, 2006 This is the story of a science teacher and her work in an over crowded and under resourced township secondary school in contemporary South Africa While set firmly in the present it is also a journey into the past shedding fresh light on how the legacy of apartheid education continues to have a major influence on teaching and learning in South Africa The book has a compelling story line with extensively referenced notes at the end of each chapter It is intended for a wide audience which includes general readers policy makers teacher educators researchers and most importantly practitioners in the field For while it reminds us of the powerful constraining role that both context and students play in mediating a teacher's practice it also attests to the power of individual agency As such it is a celebration of the actions of an ordinary teacher whose willingness to leave the well worn paths of familiar practice stands as a beacon of possibility for contexts which seem so often to be devoid of hope
