Teachers Stories From Personal Narrative To Professional Insight:

Teachers' Stories Mary Renck Jalongo, Joan P. Isenberg, Gloria Gerbracht, 1995-02-10 Storytelling or narrative is gaining acceptance as an important tool for professional development research and teaching This book shows how teachers and educators can use stories of their professional experiences to reflect on their own practice articulate values and beliefs give shape and form to teaching theory and better understand decision making processes The book offers strategies for generating sharing and using narrative and illustrates its points with many rich classroom stories Individual chapters built around specific themes show how teachers use narrative to forge connections learn from students reflect upon experience resolve conflict develop as professionals and enter the educational dialogue A wealth of examples and specific suggestions show teachers at all levels preschool through high school how to compose and give voice to their own stories forcing them to dig beneath the surface think more deeply about teaching and learning and become truly reflective practitioners

Teachers' Narrative Inquiry as Professional Development Karen E. Johnson, Paula R. Golombek, 2002-07-08 A collection of personal contextualized stories of teachers assessing their own experiences in gaining expertise as language teachers Preservice and inservice teachers will benefit from the insights provided in this book as will Language Teacher Educators and education researchers

Teacher Narrative as Critical Inquiry Joy S. Ritchie, David E. Wilson, 2000 Research on teacher learning has too often excluded personal development in considering professional development This timely book argues that the development of a professional identity is inextricable from personal identity It suggests that when teachers are given the opportunity to compose their own stories of learning within a supportive community they can then begin to compose new narratives of identity and practice This book is a critical tool for educators seeking to refine their teaching practice and author their own development

Narratives on Teaching and Teacher Education A. Mattos, 2009-07-06 This book brings in an international perspective on a much debated area namely teacher education Through narrative research the chapters in this collection provide a wide variety of stories of discovery transformation and hope in teaching and learning to teach

On Becoming an Education Professional: A Psychosocial Exploration of Developing an Education Professional Practice Alan Bainbridge, 2016-09-23 This book draws together a variety of detailed case studies to demonstrate the unique interaction between the past and the present which occurs within the professional education context Using a psychosocial approach Alan Bainbridge suggests that this process of identity or role formation requires the expectations and fantasies of the past to be negotiated at the unconscious individual and social level A focus on personal agency and dealing with the complexity inherent in education settings highlights the macro and micro negotiations new education professionals are required to undertake between the margins of the personal and professional to provide a more nuanced model for early professional development

Burning Issues Karyn Cooper, Robert E. White, 2004 Here is a book with numerous applications It is intended to situate self examination and issues based learning in reality in a professional context in which teachers and students work to shape practices and identities In this way teachers can explore who they are as individuals their understandings of themselves and their experiences as well as the impact of these experiences in the classroom the school and the community As a course book on teacher development both for undergraduates and for teachers embarking on post graduate work the focus on real life experience forges powerful links between the theoretical underpinnings of teaching and classroom practices Burning Issues may also serve as a foundation book for coursework and workshops exploring research on teachers and teacher development As a sourcebook for in service teachers the authors focus attention on real life experiences theory and practices associated with reflection and emancipation The authors offer a vision for crafting a career long tradition in critical inquiry Educators of any stripe will find this text useful and informative

Qualitative Research Sandra G. Kouritzin,Nathalie A.C. Piquemal,Renee Norman,2009-02-15 I commend and celebrate the editors and authors for a remarkable book that engages the reader s imagination heart mind spirit and body Out of creative and courageous commitments to challenging orthodoxies by living and writing research that is personal political and poetic these scholars invite the kind of vigorous dialogue that will continue to promote creative possibilities for inquiry in the social sciences Carl Leggo University of British Columbia From the Foreword Evocative and provocative this book presents the points of view of often junior scholars in the social sciences who used non standard methods or writing practices to challenge the research as usual paradigm in the academy while at the same time meeting the demands of quality and rigor set by their university examining committees and ethical review boards The intent is to encourage new researchers who are also considering such a path The authors discuss their lived personal experiences within and against traditional academic research and writing traditions as well as their struggles and eventual successes Chapters are written in dramatic form in dialogue in story and include poetry vignettes testimonials and autobiographical accounts Collectively they form a unique distinctive situated polyphonic case study of research in the social sciences from several perspectives challenging the orthodoxies

Taboo ,2001 Culture, Relevance, and Schooling Lisa Scherff,Karen Spector,2011-03-16 In Culture Relevance and Schooling Exploring Uncommon Ground Lisa Scherff Karen Spector and the contributing authors conceive of culturally relevant and critically minded pedagogies in terms of opening up new spatial discursive and or embodied learning terrains Readers will traverse multiple landscapes and look into a variety of spaces where attempts to tear down or build up pedagogical borders based upon socially just design are underway In disciplines ranging from elementary science to high school English to college kinesiology the contributors to this volume describe their attempts to remake schooling in ways that bring hope and dignity to their participants

Bilingual Education and Language Policy in the Global South Jo Arthur Shoba,Feliciano Chimbutane,2013-07-18 This volume considers a range of ways in which bilingual programs can make a contribution to aspects of human and economic development in the global South The authors examine the consequences of different policies programs and pedagogies for learners and local communities through recent ethnographic research on these topics The revitalization of minority languages and local cultural practices management of linguistic and cultural diversity and promotion of equal opportunities both social and economic are all explored in this light Rethinking Multicultural Education Carol Korn-Bursztyn, Alberto M. Bursztyn Ph.D., 2002-03-30 Korn and Bursztyn and their contributors examine the cultural transitions that children make as they move between the cultures of home and school To better understand these transitions they explore how educators understand their students shifting experiences and examine how educators also negotiate transitions as they too move from home to school each day The narratives or case studies reflect this shifting gaze from child to teacher to parents and take up the various relational configurations that these can form amongst and between each other They turn a critical eye toward instances of classroom practice and school life connecting personal knowledge with school change In some cases the authors draw directly on autobiographical material linking these to a reflective approach to teaching Avoiding the celebratory tone that often attends discussions of multiculturalism the authors address how diversity engages us in continual renegotiation of the personal and social The perspectives of educators and of teacher candidates are presented and the construction of cultural identity and its impact on schools explored In illuminating the complicated nature of cultural transitions and the obligation of schools to create places in which children and families of diverse backgrounds can thrive they highlight how multiculturalism can play a transformative role in the lives of children and schools A must reading for educators and graduate students in education school psychology guidance and counseling Resources in Education, 1998
