Among the book's subjects are philosophers such as Aristotle, Plato, Kant, and Cassirer; scientists such as Darwin and Galileo; and authors such as Kafka, Proust, and Shakespeare. The essays not only allow readers to see such thinkers in a new light but underscore the fact that sociological questions have lain at the very heart of humanity throughout history.

Teaching Ethics through Literature Suzanne S. Choo, 2021-07-01 Teaching Ethics through Literature provides in-depth understanding of a new and exciting shift in the fields of English education, Literature, Language Arts, and Literacy through exploring their connections with ethics. The book pioneers an approach to integrating ethics in the teaching of literature. This has become increasingly relevant and necessary in our globally connected age. A key feature of the book is its integration of theory and practice. It begins with a historical survey of the emergence of the ethical turn in Literature education and grounds this on the ideas of influential Ethical Philosophers and Literature scholars. Most importantly, it provides insights into how teachers can engage students in ethical concerns and apply practices of Ethical Criticism using rich on-the-ground case studies of high school Literature teachers in Australia, Singapore, and the United States.

Teaching the Novel across the Curriculum Colin C. Irvine, 2007-11-30 Instructors at all levels are being encouraged to teach writing in their courses even in subjects other than English. Because the novel reflects a broad set of human experiences and history, it is the ideal vehicle for learning about a wide range of issues. This book helps educators learn how to incorporate novels in courses in English, the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and professional studies. The chapters focus on using the novel to explore ethical concerns, multiculturalism, history, social theory, psychology, social work, and education. The book looks at major canonical works as well as graphic novels and popular literature. Language arts are at the forefront of education these days. Instructors at all levels are being encouraged to teach writing in their courses even if those courses cover subjects other than English. Literature instructors have long used fiction to teach composition. But because the novel reflects a broad range of human experiences and historical events, it is the ideal medium for learning about contemporary social issues. This book helps educators learn how to use the novel in courses in English, the humanities, social and behavioral sciences, and professional studies. The book is divided into broad sections on general education classes, multiculturalism, literature classes, humanities courses, classes in social, behavioral, and political sciences, and professional studies such as social work and teacher training. Each section includes chapters written by gifted teachers and provides a wealth of theoretical and practical information. While the book examines major canonical works such as Hard Times, Billy Budd, and Invisible Man, it also looks at graphic novels, science fiction, and popular contemporary works such as Finishing School and Jarhead. Chapters reflect the personal successes of their authors and cite works for further reading.

study introduces the concepts of naturalization and naturalized modernity and uses them as tools for understanding the way modernity has been experienced and portrayed in Japanese literature since the end of the Second World War Special emphasis is given to four leading post war writers Kawabata Yasunari Abe Kobo Murakami Haruki and Murakami Ryu The author argues that notions of shock in modern city life in Japan as exemplified in the writings of Walter Benjamin and George Simmel while present in the work of older Japanese writers do not appear to hold true in much contemporary Japanese literature it is as if the shock impact of change has evolved as a naturalized or Japanized process The author focuses on the implications of this phenomenon both in the context of the theory of modernity and as an opportunity to reevaluate the works of his chosen writers     The Family Through Literature Nicholas Tavuchis,William Josiah Goode,1975     Methods of
