

Commonwealth of Independent States

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

The Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS; Russian: Содружество Независимых Государств, СНГ, or Содружество Независимых Государств, СНГ; also called the Russian Commonwealth)^[1] is a regional organisation whose participating countries are former Soviet Republics, formed during the breakup of the Soviet Union.

The CIS is a loose association of states. Although the CIS has few supranational powers, it is aimed at being more than a purely symbolic organisation, nominally possessing coordinating powers in the realm of trade, finance, lawmaking, and security. It has also promoted cooperation on cross-border crime prevention. However, eight of the nine CIS members states form the CIS Free Trade Area, and five of these form the Eurasian Economic Union, a customs union and common market of over 180 million people. In addition, six member states participate in a mutual defence alliance: the Collective Security Treaty Organization.
