Chester,2013-04-17 The atmosphere is an important pathway for the transport of continentally derived material to the oceans In this respect the Mediterranean Sea is of special importance because its atmosphere receives inputs of anthropogenic aerosols from the north and desert derived Saharan dusts from the south The dusts much of which is transported in the form of seasonal pulses have important effects on climate marine chemistry and sedimentation in the Mediterranean Sea This volume brings together reviews and specific topic papers on the following aspects of Saharan dust transport to the Mediterranean Sea i the modelling of Saharan dust transport ii the chemistry and mineralogy of the dusts and their effect on precipitation iii the contribution of the dusts to marine sedimentation iv the aerobiology of the dusts and v climatic implications of Saharan dust transport The volume is aimed at students and researchers with an interest in the climate biogeochemistry and geology of the Mediterranean Sea The Northern Adriatic Ecosystem Frank Kenneth McKinney,2007 The northern Adriatic Sea is transient most recently flooded between 18 000 to 6 000 years ago following the last glacial maximum and it will drain again with the onset of the next glacial period Despite its youth uniformly shallow depth and flat sediment floor it hosts a broad range of bottom dwelling sea life ecologically resembling communities that have existed in the shallow sea since the Ordovician Period some 500 million years ago The northern Adriatic is a natural laboratory in which to test hypotheses concerning the shift from the Paleozoic prevalence of stationary suspension feeders living on the surface of the sediment and feeding from the overlying waters to more recently bottom dwelling animals living dominantly in or actively seeking temporary refuge within the sediments of the sea floor regardless of where they feed Across the northern Adriatic Sea there is an ecological gradient from Paleozoic style surface dwelling communities in the east to modern communities living almost exclusively within the sediments in the west Therefore within the relatively small area of the northern Adriatic there is an existing gradient similar to the profound ecological change from Paleozoic to more modern marine life During the early twentieth century life at the bottom of the Adriatic was systematically sampled from the east to the west coasts revealing the most common animals and their distribution In this book Frank K McKinney combines these findings with more recent local studies to understand better the ecological structure of the Adriatic s floor Specifically he uses the predation sediment textures and deposition rates currents and nutrients of northern Adriatic bottom communities to evaluate hypotheses concerning the conditions that drove surface dwelling animals to seek long term refuge within sea floor
