Sociology S G:

The Making of Singapore Sociology Tong Chee-Kiong, Lian Kwen-Fee, 2021-11-08 This book presents a collection of essays of how the city state of Singapore's societal dynamics have evolved from the time of its birth as a nation in 1965 to the present. Key areas of Singapore society are explored contributing to the understanding of the social organisation of the city. This study reveals a shift from the modernisation studies in the 1970s to a more political economic turn as a consequence of the influence of dependency and world systems theories. Topics covered include urban studies, family, education, medical care, class and social stratification, work, language, ethnic groups, religion, and crime and deviance. Laws of the State of New York New York (State), 1960 The Oxford Handbook of Digital Technology and Society Simeon Yates, Ronald E. Rice, 2020-06-01 Required reading for anyone interested in the profound relationship between digital technology and society. Digital technology has become an undeniable facet of our social lives, defining our governments, communities, and personal identities. Yet with these technologies in ongoing evolution, it is difficult to gauge the full extent of their societal impact, leaving researchers and policy makers with the challenge of staying up to date on a field that is constantly in flux. The Oxford Handbook of Digital Technology and Society provides students, researchers, and practitioners across the technology and social science sectors with a comprehensive overview of the foundations for understanding the various relationships between digital technology and society. Combining robust computer-aided reviews of current literature from the UK Economic and Social Research Council's commissioned project Ways of Being in a Digital Age with newly commissioned chapters, this handbook illustrates the upcoming research questions and challenges facing the social sciences as they address the societal impacts of digital media and technologies across seven broad categories: citizenship and politics, communities and identities, communication and relationships, health and well-being, economy and sustainability, data and representation, and governance and security. Individual chapters feature important practical and ethical explorations into topics such as technology and the aging, digital literacies, work-home boundary machines in the workforce, digital censorship and surveillance, big data, governance and regulation, and technology in the public sector. The Oxford Handbook of Digital Technology and Society will equip readers with the necessary starting points and provocations in the field so that scholars and policy makers can effectively assess future research practice and policy. Religious Diversity in Singapore Lai Ah Eng, 2008 Religious and ethno-religious issues are inherent in many multiethnic and multi-religious societies. Singapore society is no exception. It has long been multiethnic, multicultural, and multi-religious, being at the crossroads of many major and minor civilizations, cultures, and traditions, and its religious diversity continues to develop in the current contexts of growing religiosity, religious change, and conflict, often in the name of religion. Despite this background, there is a lack of in-depth, nuanced understanding and regular dialogue about religions and the meanings of living in a multi-religious world. This volume, covering major themes of Singapore's religious landscape, religion in schools, and among the young, religion in the media, religious involvement in social services and interfaith issues and interaction fills important gaps in the knowledge and understanding of Singapore's religious diversity and complexity. A collective effort of researchers and practitioners it is a timely and useful reference for scholars, decision makers, leaders and practitioners as well as for concerned citizens and followers. Loyola Educational Index Austin Guildford Schmidt, 1928 Singapore Studies Beng Huat Chua, Basant Kapur, 1986 This edition brings up to date a decade of research work, developments of the Faculty of Arts and Social Science, National University of Singapore since the first volume was published in 1985. The state of the respective disciplines covered are reviewed in terms of notable theoretical and conceptual developments, major benchmarks during the past decade and research lacunae that need to be addressed as well as their substantive developments and contributions in the Singapore context and possible future directions resulting in a collection of essays that places the Faculty's studies in an international comparative framework.

The Contemporary Family in Singapore Eddie C. Y. Kuo, Aline K. Wong, 1979 Twelve essays on the sociology of the family in Singapore in the modern period. Managing Diversity In Singapore: Policies And Prospects Mathews Mathew, Wai Fong Chiang, 2016-05-11 Singapore society is increasingly becoming diverse. During the first few decades of nation building, policies were designed to homogenise aspects of Singaporean society while enshrining principles to allow restricted amounts of diversity. Fast forward to the present and fifty years after independence, the number of areas where diversity is profoundly apparent remains copious and its manifestations more varied. This book provides an updated account on the tensions posed by diversity in Singapore and how this is being managed primarily by the state through policies and programmes but also by communities who attempt to negotiate these tensions. Such an enquiry is crucial especially at this juncture when the nation is finding ways to embrace the different forms of diversity brought about through external impetuses as well as manage internal reactions from the various communities. The book chapters highlight important considerations if Singapore's diversity management strategies will hold promise for the future. Handbook of Sports Studies Jay Coakley, Eric Dunning, 2000 An authoritative cast of international and inter disciplinary contributors present the best of current thinking in sports studies as the subject matures and develops academically. Rationalizing Religion Chee Kiong Tong, 2007 Disputing the secularization hypothesis, this book examines the relationship between religion and modernity, detailing and explaining religious conversion, revivalism and religious competition in Singapore. There is intellectualization of religion, a shift from unthinking acceptance to rationalized religions. Language and Society in Singapore Evangelos A. Afendras, Eddie C. Y. Kuo, 1980 Elite Schools Aaron Koh, Jane Kenway, 2016-02-19 Geography matters to elite schools, to how they function and flourish, to how they locate themselves and their Others. Like their privileged clientele, they use geography as a resource to elevate themselves. They mark and market place. This collection as a whole reads elite schools through a spatial lens. It offers fresh lines of inquiry to the new sociology of elite schools. Collectively, the authors examine elite schools and systems in different parts of the world. They highlight the ways that these schools and their clients operate.

within diverse local national regional and global contexts in order to shape their own and their clients privilege and prestige The collection also points to the uses of the transnational as a resource via the International Baccalaureate study tours and the discourses of global citizenship Building on research about social class meritocracy privilege and power in education it offers inventive critical lenses and insights particularly from the Global South As such it is an intervention in global power knowledge geographies

Discourses of Globalisation, Ideology, and Human Rights Joseph Zajda, Yvonne Vissing, 2022-03-11 This book examines dominant discourses in human rights education globally Using diverse paradigms ranging from critical theory to discourse analysis the book examines major human rights education reforms and policy issues in a global culture with a focus on the ambivalent and problematic relationship between human rights education discourses ideology and the state The book discusses democracy ideology and human rights which are among the most critical and significant factors defining and contextualising the processes surrounding human rights education globally The book critiques current human rights education practices and policy reforms illustrating the shifts in the relationship between the state ideology and human rights education policy Written by authors from diverse backgrounds and regions the book examines current developments in research concerning human rights education The book enables readers to gain a more holistic understanding of the nexus between human rights education and dominant ideologies both locally and globally It also provides an easily accessible practical yet scholarly insights into international concerns in the field of human rights education in the context of global culture

The Politics of Nation Building and Citizenship in Singapore Michael Hill, Kwen Fee Lian, 2013-06-17 Since independence in 1965 Singapore has strengthened its own national identity through a conscious process of nation building and promoting the active role of the citizen within society Singapore is a state that has firmly rejected welfarism but whose political leaders have maintained that collective values instead of those of autonomous individuals are essential to its very survival The book begins by examining basic concepts of citizenship nationality and the state in the context of Singapore's arrival at independence The theme of nation building is explored and how the creation of a national identity through building new institutions has been a central feature of political and social life in Singapore Of great importance has been education and a system of multilingual education that is part of a broader government strategy of multiculturalism and multiracialism both have served the purpose of building a new national identity Other areas covered by the authors include family planning housing policy the creation of parapolitical structures and the importance of shared Asian values amongst Singapore's citizens

Interethnic Marriage in Singapore Riaz Hassan, Examines an important aspect of inter ethnic relations namely inter ethnic marriage in Singapore one of Southeast Asia's most ethnically heterogeneous societies With chapters on the sociological significance sociological factors and types of such marriage traditional sociocultural organization and ethnic marrying out rates and an assessment of findings and research possibilities

Knowledge, Control and Critical Thinking in Singapore Leonel Lim, 2015-09-07 This book examines how critical thinking is regulated in Singapore through the process of what the influential sociologist of education Basil Bernstein termed pedagogic recontextualization. The ability of critical thinking to speak to alternative possibilities and individual autonomy as well as its assumptions of a liberal arrangement of society is problematized in Singapore's socio-political climate. By examining how such curricular discourses are taken up and enacted in the classrooms of two schools that cater to very different groups in society, the book foregrounds the role of traditional high status knowledge in the elaboration of class formation and develops a critical understanding of post-developmental state initiatives linked to the parable of modernization in Singapore. Knowledge Control and Critical Thinking in Singapore offers chapters on Critical Thinking and the Singapore State, Meritocracy, Illiberalism and Neoliberalism, Sacred Knowledge and Elite Dispositions, Recontextualizing Critical Thinking in an Elite School, Power, Knowledge and Symbolic Control, Official Pedagogic Identities and the Politics of Recontextualization. This book will appeal to scholars in comparative education studies, curriculum studies and education reform. It will also interest scholars engaged in Asian studies who are struggling to understand issues of education policy formation and implementation, particularly in the areas of critical thinking and other knowledge skills. A Chinese from Singapore Samuel Wong, 2009-03-23. A young Chinese came to the U.S. for theological training. His goal was to become a pastor/teacher in Singapore. Upon graduation, he returned to Singapore with his Caucasian wife to fulfill his obligations and to do post-graduate study concurrently. Unwittingly, the young couple was entangled in church and secular politics and they had to leave Singapore. They began a new life in America. At several critical junctures of the protagonist's career, when he was in a relatively comfortable environment, he moved out of the comfort zone to tackle a new challenge in response to a higher calling. The detours in his life journey, the prejudice and discrimination in the workplace, the consistent acts of fairness of people of good will, the secrets of his success and the mellowing of his worldview and religious faith are the substance of this unusual book of inspiration. For a deeper appreciation of one who has led a life full of challenges, a life characterized by many successes against high odds and a life replete with recognitions and awards in secular and religious settings, I invite you to read on. Social Capital in Singapore Vincent Chua, Gillian Koh, Ern Ser Tan, Drew Shih, 2020-12-27. How can social cohesion be achieved in a meritocratic and multicultural global city-state? Meritocracy poses a paradox. On one hand, it integrates individuals through frameworks of equal treatment, equal justice and opportunity regardless of race, language or religion. On the other hand, individuals are then segregating through academic sorting; they are rewarded based on credentials and performance, which also results in elite identification and bonding. After a generation without mitigation action, social stratification can result. Distinctive circles differentiating social elites from non-elites, the professional classes from non-professional classes emerge. The remedy the authors propose is network diversity, which is the organic forming of ties across class and other social boundaries built on deliberate policies, programmes and platforms designed to facilitate that. This social mixing, forged in social infrastructure such as schools, workplaces and voluntary associations, pays off by producing the collective goods of national identity and trust This hypothesis has been tested in the case of Singapore society and the empirical results from the research on the power of network diversity and bridging social capital are found in this volume An insightful read for scholars and practitioners in public policy and social network analysis looking to understand the challenges faced by and the experiences that have emerged from the case of Singapore with its multicultural and cosmopolitan setting Sea Grant Publications Index ,1975 Governing Global-City Singapore Kenneth Paul Tan,2016-12-19 This book provides a detailed analysis of how governance in Singapore has evolved since independence to become what it is today and what its prospects might be in a post Lee Kuan Yew future Firstly it discusses the question of political leadership electoral dominance and legislative monopoly in Singapore s one party dominant system and the system s durability Secondly it tracks developments in Singapore s public administration critically analysing the formation and transformation of meritocracy and pragmatism two key components of the state ideology Thirdly it discusses developments within civil society focusing in particular on issues related to patriarchy and feminism hetero normativity and gay activism immigration and migrant worker exploitation and the contest over history and national narratives in academia the media and the arts Fourthly it discusses the PAP government s efforts to connect with the public including its national public engagement exercises that can be interpreted as a subtler approach to social and political control In increasingly complex conditions the state struggles to maintain its hegemony while securing a pre eminent position in the global economic order Tan demonstrates how trends in these four areas converge in ways that signal plausible futures for a post LKY Singapore
