Solar Eclipses Recorded In China During:

The Sun Recorded Through History J.M. Vaquero, M. Vázquez, 2009-04-21 The Sun is nowadays observed using different techniques that provide an almost instantaneous 3 D map of its structure Of particular interest is the study of the variability in the solar output produced by the dissipation of magnetic energy on different spatial and temporal scales the so called magnetic activity The 11 year cycle is the main feature describing this phenomenon Apart from its intrinsic scientific interest this topic is worth studying because of the interaction of such processes with the terrestrial environment A fleet of space and ground based observatories are currently monitoring the behaviour of our star on a daily basis However solar activity varies not only on this decadal time scale as has been attested mainly through two methods a records of the number of sunspots observed on the solar surface from 1610 and b the records of 14 10 cosmogenic isotopes such as <sup>14</sup>C and <sup>10</sup>Be measured in tree rings and ice cores respectively The study of the long term behaviour of solar activity may be complemented by the study of historical accounts describing phenomena directly or indirectly related to solar activity Numerous scientific and non scientific documents have reported these events and we can make use of them as a proxy of solar activity in past times

Observations and Predictions of Eclipse Times by Early Astronomers J.M. Steele, 2013-04-17 Eclipses have long been seen as important celestial phenomena whether as omens affecting the future of kingdoms or as useful astronomical events to help in deriving essential parameters for theories of the motion of the moon and sun This is the first book to collect together all presently known records of timed eclipse observations and predictions from antiquity to the time of the invention of the telescope In addition to cataloguing and assessing the accuracy of the various records which come from regions as diverse as Ancient Mesopotamia China and Europe the sources in which they are found are described in detail Related questions such as what type of clocks were used to time the observations how the eclipse predictions were made and how these prediction schemes were derived from the available observations are also considered The results of this investigation have important consequences for how we understand the relationship between observation and theory in early science and the role of astronomy in early cultures and will be of interest to historians of science astronomers and ancient and medieval historians

Advances in Solar Research at Eclipses from Ground and from Space Jean-Paul Zahn, Magda Stavinschi, 2012-12-06 The aim of this Advanced Study Institute was to give an account on the most recent results obtained in solar research Bucharest was chosen to host it because the capital city of Romania was located right in the middle of the totality path of the last eclipse of the millennium on 11th August 1999 furthermore the phenomenon was close to reach there its longest duration 2m 23s Such a total eclipse is not only a very spectacular event which draws the crowds to astronomers solar eclipses still offer the best conditions for observing the lower part of the corona The Sun plays a crucial role in our very existence It was responsible for the formation of the Earth and rendered this planet fit to host living beings providing the right amount of heat and this for a long enough span of time Quite understandably it has always been a prime target of human curiosity and more recently one of scientific investigation During the last century it was realized that the Sun is a star like billions of others we learned since that it draws its energy from the nuclear fusion of hydrogen and we are now able to estimate its age and life expectancy
