The Urban Soldier Maurice Northmore, 2025-06-24 This book is based on a true story and starts shortly after the end of WWII and though the war has finished Jack is convinced it hasn't and continues to play with his father's Home Guard gasmask and wooden rifle To say his childhood is mysterious confusing and strange is an understatement He plays on the streets and in the woods without the luxuries we now take for granted Nobody has a car a telephone or a television All Jack needs is a friend and anything he can mould into a ball He walks everywhere He carries groceries from the local shop His father grows vegetables and raises chickens for their eggs and sad to say Christmas dinner They cook on a large coal fired black cast iron fireplace Jack can cook and make the coal fire by the time he is five He bathes in a metal tub in front of the fire He listens to Joseph Lock and a group called the Ink spots on 78 rpm records He's 12 before he tastes his first banana Hanging is in force and it scares the hell out of him His parents don't speak about anything personal He has to go to church and sing in the choir until his voice brakes at the age of 13 The milkman delivers milk in glass bottles which freeze in winter The pie man calls in his little blue van selling pies and mushy peas Jack has pillow fights with his brother who's five years older than he is Scholl discipline is strict Punishment is the cane or writing 500 lines I must not do this I must not do that No wonder he thinks the war is still being fought

Modernism and Mourning Patricia Rae, 2007 The essays in Modernism and Mourning examine the work of mourning in modernist literature or more precisely its propensity for resisting this work Drawing from recent developments in the theory and cultural history of mourning its contributors explore the various ways in which modernist writers repudiate Freud's famous injunction to mourners to work through their grief endorsing instead a resistant or melancholic mourning that shapes both their themes and their radical experiments with form The emerging picture of the pervasive influence of melancholic mourning in modernist literature casts new light on longstanding critical arguments especially those about the politics of modernism It also makes clear the pertinence of this literature to the present day in which the catastrophic losses of 9/11 of retaliatory war of racially motivated genocide of the AIDS epidemic have made the work of mourning a subject of widespread interest and debate Patricia Rae is Head of the Department of English at Queen's University
