Wise, Scott Baron, 2008 The incredible stories of twenty two lone survivors of maritime disasters are presented in this collection of war and peacetime incidents The dramatic accounts including those of a British sailor who survived 133 days at sea on an open raft and a German sailor who spent 28 hours in the ocean without a life preserver are based on a wide array of sources including interviews with the survivors and their families and official records to back up their accuracy Most took place in World War II when the navies and merchant fleets of many nations roamed the seas Each story is one of boundless courage a tenacious will to survive and in many cases good luck Sea Breezes, 1925 The Submariner's Dictionary Or Submariner's Compendium of Terms & Tar's Handbook of Naval Verbiage and Retired Guy's Re-familiarization Manual Ron Martini, 2005 Submariners are a tight knit group of men bound together by training and experience and with a language all their own That language is perhaps a little vulgar but never intentionally demeaning and a little irreverent but still worldly This work is an attempt to preserve and explain some of these curious guys who so proudly wear a shiny metal pin that looks like a strange pair of fish on their left breast This process of accumulating this new language begins in Boot Camp and is added to with every change of duty station the sailor undergoes It is heard aboard the boats and unknowingly by family members who can't understand terms like head deck and overhead and who think SOS is a distress signal Human Dispersal, Human Evolution, and the Sea John F. Cherry, Thomas P. Leppard, 2025-02-21 Human Dispersal Human Evolution and the Sea is the first book length treatment of what has become known as the global Palaeolithic seafaring debate Until recently common consensus dictated that only in the last ten thousand years have humans routinely permanently and cross culturally traversed seas and oceans to colonize new lands New and sometimes contentious data from the Mediterranean and Island Southeast Asia challenge that consensus suggesting to some researchers that long distance voyaging is a behavior of great antiquity These scholars suggest that oceans and seas facilitated and encouraged planetary dispersal in our own genus rather than acting as barriers to dispersal If this model is correct it necessitates a radical rethinking of not only the big patterns of human history but also more deeply our models of emergent human behavior and when the capacity for highly complex and coordinated group behaviors emerged Exploring the data in detail the authors here show how a complex series of interrelated problems has tended to be treated in reductionist or overly simplistic terms Cherry and Leppard elucidate this complexity by bringing to bear perspectives from archaeology ecology and evolutionary biology They demonstrate not only that a series of unique circumstances evolutionary behavioral environmental and economic conspired to drive mass ubiquitous global colonization over the last ten millennia but also that earlier sparser data provide real insight into key social and behavioral thresholds even if there is little evidence to support the oceans as highways model for species other than our own A major intervention in this important debate Human Dispersal Human Evolution and the Sea explains the deep significance of the problem and the profound implications for history archaeology and biological anthropology Sinai Photographed, Or Contemporary Records of Israel in the Wilderness Charles Forster,1862
