library Envisioning Media Power Brett Christophers, 2009-04-16 Envisioning Media Power develops an original geographical perspective on the nature and exercise of power in the international television economy It uses theories of political economy as the basis for a comparative empirical examination of the UK and New Zealand television markets while closely considering these markets respective relationships with the US market and its globally influential media corporations In fleshing out this geographical perspective the book critically addresses the power to produce reproduce and extract profit from territorialized media markets To understand such powers the book examines processes of creation and dissemination of industry knowledge structures of industry governance and the locational characteristics of television s operational economy Through its rigorous and creative combination of conceptual insights with empirical substance Envisioning Media Power both illuminates the fabric of television s international space economy and ultimately offers a unique theoretic argument suggesting that power knowledge and geography are inseparable not only from one another but from the process of accumulation of media capital Ecological Awareness Sigurd Bergmann, Heather Eaton, 2011 The past years have seen an ecological development in religions that is staggering These efforts are responses to difficult local and global ecological problems with an increased awareness that religions need to be alert engaged and active partners in the work for a sustainable future Ecological Awareness with 17 authors from theology religious studies biology sociology and philosophy explores how religious practitioners have become increasingly aware of ecological challenges The book considers aspects of ecological awareness personal social political religious and ecological It sheds new light on an essential function of belief systems which function not only as cognitive and moral systems but emerge from and affect our human body and its mode of perceiving our milieu and ourselves within it The book contributes to an increasing awareness of our embeddedness in larger life processes as well as the awareness of life as a gift The Political Ecology of Climate Change Adaptation Marcus Taylor, 2014-11-17 This book provides the first systematic critique of the concept of climate change adaptation within the field of international development Drawing on a reworked political ecology framework it argues that climate is not something out there that we adapt to Instead it is part of the social and biophysical forces through which our lived environments are actively yet unevenly produced From this original foundation the book challenges us to rethink the concepts of climate change vulnerability resilience and adaptive capacity in transformed ways With case studies drawn from Pakistan India and Mongolia it demonstrates concretely how climatic change emerges as a dynamic force in the ongoing transformation of contested rural landscapes In crafting this synthesis the book recalibrates the frameworks we use to envisage climatic change in the context of contemporary debates over development livelihoods and poverty With its unique theoretical contribution and case study material this book will appeal to researchers and students in environmental studies sociology geography politics and development studies Cartographies of Nature Maano Ramutsindela, 2014-06-19 The ascendancy of border studies in the last two decades or so and the burgeoning work on nature and society neither drew attention to ecological theories of borders nor capitalised on nature as a useful avenue through which border research could be advanced. This volume fills this void by engaging with the following key questions: What insights can be drawn from species borders to broaden understandings of bordering? What sorts of borders are engendered by various types of conservation areas? What border stories does each of these areas tell us? What do conservation related borders teach us about multiple lines that divide societies? Answers to these questions help researchers understand a typology of nature related borders. The primary objectives of this volume are twofold. The first objective is to expand and deepen the links between nature conservation and border studies by bringing species borders into conversation with border studies while at the same time paying attention to diverse conservation areas and conservation practices. The second objective is to highlight forms of borders associated with various types of conservation areas and the protection of certain types of natural resources. The manner in which nature conservation produces borders and the forms those borders take has the potential to enrich the conceptualisation of borders. The point of departure in this volume is that conservation practices produce feedback loops on social reality. Authors in the volume variously show that concerns with environmental protection and management offer possibilities for exploring and even disrupting borders within society and those between society and nature. Conservation areas in particular are crucial for a meaningful analysis of nature's borders and the discourses and narratives related to them and how such discourses influence conservation practice. This volume is an invaluable resource for research and upper level courses on border studies, political ecology, conservation and biodiversity management and environmental change and social impact.

Handbook of Rural Studies Paul Cloke, Terry Marsden, Patrick Mooney, 2006-01-05. This book raises the theoretical level of rural studies to new heights. The Handbook of Rural Studies will likely become a key resource on the bookshelves of the next generation of graduate students. Gary Paul Green, University of Wisconsin-Madison. This Handbook powerfully demonstrates that rural spaces, rural societies and rural natures are at the very forefront of critical social science endeavour. Read this book, become a rural social scientist. Henry Buller, University of Exeter. An outstandingly comprehensive review of theory, research and the study of rural questions: an essential reference for students, scholars, politicians, developers and rural activists. Imre Kovach, Institute for Political Sciences, Budapest. This collection is an essential addition to any rural scholar's library and will be a critical resource for both established rural scholars and rising graduate students interested in rural research topics. Peter B. Nelson, Middlebury College. The Handbook of Rural Studies is a tour de force on changing rural people and places in a rapidly urbanizing global economy: the most comprehensive interdisciplinary treatment of rural available anywhere. This is absolutely must reading for social scientists concerned about finding a prominent place for rural in scholarly discourse, institutional analysis and public policy debates on the political economy of space. Daniel T. Licher, Policy Analysis and Management, Cornell University. The Handbook represents the vitality and theoretical innovation at work in rural studies. It shows how political economy and the cultural turn have led to very significant new thinking in the cultural representations of rurality.

nature sustainability new economies power and rurality new consumerism and exclusion and rurality It is organized in three sections approaches to rural studies rural research key theoretical coordinates and new rural relations In a rich and textured discussion the Handbook of Rural Studies explains the key moments in which the theorization of culture nature politics agency and space in rural contexts have transmitted ideas back into wider social science

The Geography of Nostalgia

Alastair Bonnett,2015-08-11 We are familiar with the importance of progress and change But what about loss Across the world from Beijing to Birmingham people are talking about loss about the loss that occurs when populations try to make new lives in new lands as well as the loss of traditions languages and landscapes The Geography of Nostalgia is the first study of loss as a global and local phenomenon something that occurs on many different scales and which connects many different people The Geography of Nostalgia explores nostalgia as a child of modernity but also as a force that exceeds and challenges modernity The book begins at a global level addressing the place of nostalgia within both global capitalism and anti capitalism In Chapter Two it turns to the contested role of nostalgia in debates about environmentalism and social constructionism Chapter Three addresses ideas of Asia and India as nostalgic forms The book then turns to more particular and local landscapes the last three chapters explore the yearnings of migrants for distant homelands and the old cities and ancient forests that are threatened by modernity but which modern people see as sites of authenticity and escape The Geography of Nostalgia is a reader friendly text that will appeal to a variety of markets In the university sector it is a student friendly interdisciplinary text that will be welcomed across a broad range of courses including cultural geography post colonial studies landscape and planning sociology and history

Cultures of Energy Sarah Strauss,Stephanie Rupp,Thomas Love,2016-06-16

This path breaking volume explores cultures of energy the underlying but under appreciated dimensions of both crisis and innovation in resource use around the globe Theoretical chapters situate pressing energy issues in larger conceptual frames and ethnographic case studies reveal energy as it is imagined used and contested in a variety of cultural contexts Contributors address issues including the connection between resource flows and social relationships in energy systems cultural transformation and notions of progress and collapse the blurring of technology and magic social tensions that accompany energy contraction and sociocultural changes required in affluent societies to reduce dependence on fossil fuels Each of five thematic sections concludes with an integrative and provocative conversation among the authors The volume is an ideal tool for teaching unique contemporary and comparative perspectives on social theories of science and technology in undergraduate and graduate courses

Where the Waters Divide Michael Mascarenhas, 2012-07-13 This timely and important scholarship advances an empirical understanding of Canada s contemporary Indian problem Where the Waters Divide is one of the few book monographs that analyze how contemporary neoliberal reforms in the manner of de regulation austerity measures common sense policies privatization etc are woven through and shape contemporary racial inequality in Canadian society Using recent controversies in drinking water contamination and solid waste and sewage pollution Where the Waters Divide illustrates in concrete ways how cherished notions of liberalism and common sense reform neoliberalism also constitute a particular form of racial oppression and white privilege Where the Waters Divide brings together theories and concepts from four disciplines sociology geography Aboriginal studies and environmental studies to build critical insights into the race relational aspects of neoliberal reform In particular the book argues that neoliberalism represents a key moment in time for the racial formation in Canada one that functions not through overt forms of state sanctioned racism as in the past but via the morality of the marketplace and the primacy of individual solutions to modern environmental and social problems Furthermore Mascarenhas argues because most Canadians are not aware of this pattern of laissez faire racism and because racism continues to be associated with intentional and hostile acts Canadians can dissociate themselves from this form of economic racism all the while ignoring their investment in white privilege Where the Waters Divide stands at a provocative crossroads Disciplinarily it is where the social construction of water an emerging theme within Cultural Studies and Environmental Sociology meets the social construction of expertise one of the most contentious areas within the social sciences It is also where the political economy of natural resources an emerging theme in Development and Globalization Studies meets the Politics of Race Relations an often understudied area within Environmental Studies Conceptually the book stands where the racial formation associated with natural resources reform is made and re made and where the dominant form of white privilege is contrasted with anti neoliberal social movements in Canada and across the globe

Tourism and Indigeneity in the Arctic Arvid Viken, Dieter K. Müller, 2017-05-03 This is the first book to exclusively address tourism and indigenous peoples in the circumpolar North It examines how tourism in indigenous communities is influenced by academic and political discourses and how these communities are influenced by tourism The volume focuses on the ambivalence relating to tourism as a modern force within ethnic groups who are concerned with maintaining indigenous roots and traditional practices It seeks to challenge stereotypical understandings of indigenesness and indigeneity and considers conflicting imaginaries of the Arctic and Arctic indigenous tourism The book contains case studies from Canada Greenland Norway Sweden Finland and Russia and will be of interest to postgraduate students and researchers of tourism geography sociology cultural studies and anthropology

Capitalism in the Anthropocene John Bellamy Foster, 2022-08-23 Over the last 11 700 years during which human civilization developed the earth has existed within what geologists refer to as the Holocene Epoch Now science is telling us that the Holocene Epoch in the geological time scale ended replaced by the onset of a new more dangerous Anthropocene Epoch which began around 1950 The Anthropocene Epoch is characterized by an anthropogenic rift in the biological cycles of the Earth System marking a changed reality in which human activities are now the main geological force impacting the earth as a whole generating at the same time an existential crisis for the world s population What caused this massive shift in the history of the earth In this comprehensive study John Bellamy Foster tells us that a globalized system of capital accumulation has induced humanity to foul its own nest The result is a planetary emergency that threatens all present and future generations throwing into question the continuation of civilization and ultimately the very survival of humanity itself Only by addressing the social aspects of the current planetary emergency exploring the theoretical historical and practical dimensions of the capitalism's alteration of the planetary environment is it possible to develop the ecological and social resources for a new journey of hope

Liberation Ecologies Richard Peet, Michael Watts, 2004-08-02 Liberation Ecologies brings together some of the most exciting theorists in the field to explore the impact of political ecology in today's developing world. The book casts new light on the crucial interrelations of development, social movements and the environment in the South, the bigger half of our planet, and raises questions and hopes about change on the global scale. The in-depth case material is drawn from across the Developing World, from Latin America, Africa and Asia. The issues raised in contemporary political, economic and social theory are illustrated through these case studies. Ultimately, Liberation Ecologies questions what we understand by development, be it mainstream or alternative, and seeks to renew our sense of nature's range of possibilities.

Political Ecology of REDD+ in Indonesia Jonas I. Hein, 2018-11-21 Indonesia's commitment to reducing land-based greenhouse gas emissions significantly includes the expansion of conservation areas, but these developments are not free of conflicts. This book provides a comprehensive analysis of agrarian conflicts in the context of the implementation of REDD (Reducing Emissions from Deforestation and Forest Degradation) and forest carbon offsetting in Indonesia, a country where deforestation is a major issue. The author analyzes new kinds of transnational agrarian conflicts which have strong implications for global environmental justice in the REDD pilot province of Jambi on the island of Sumatra. The chapters cover the rescaling of the governance of forests, privatization of conservation and the transnational dimensions of agrarian conflicts and peasants' resistance in the context of REDD. The book builds on an innovative conceptual approach linking political ecology, politics of scale and theories of power. It fills an important knowledge and research gap by focusing on the socially differentiated impacts of REDD and new forest carbon offsetting initiatives in Southeast Asia, providing a multi-scalar perspective. It is aimed at scholars in the areas of political ecology, human geography, climate change mitigation, forest and natural resource management, as well as environmental justice and agrarian studies. The Open Access version of this book is available at <http://www.tandfebooks.com/doi/view/10.4324/9781351066020> and has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 license.

Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality Simon Ceder, 2018-08-06 Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality critically reads the intersubjective theories on educational relations and uses a posthuman approach to ascribe agency relationally to humans and nonhumans alike. The book introduces the concept of educational relationality and contains examples of nonhuman elements of technology and animals putting educational relationality and other concepts into context as part of the philosophical investigation. Drawing on educational and posthuman theorists, it answers questions raised in ongoing debates regarding the roles of students and teachers in education, such as the foundations of educational relations and how these can be challenged. The book explores educational relations within the field of philosophy of education. After critically examining intersubjective approaches to theories of educational relations anthropocentrism and subject centrism are localized as two problematic aspects Post anthropocentrism and intra relationality are proposed as a theoretical framework before the book introduces and develops a posthuman theory of educational relations The analysis is executed through a diffractive reading of intersubjective theories resulting in five co concepts impermanence uniqueness as relationality proximity edu activity and intelligibility The analysis provided through educational examples demonstrates the potential of using the proposed theory in everyday practices Towards a Posthuman Theory of Educational Relationality will be of great interest to researchers and postgraduate students in the fields of philosophy of education early childhood education research methodology and curriculum studies

Power in the 21st Century Enrico Fels, Jan-Frederik Kremer, Katharina Kronenberg, 2012-04-10 The study of power is the nucleus of political science and international relations As a shift of power from traditional industrial countries to emerging powers has been perceived since the turn of the century this book aims to present innovative theoretical and empirical approaches that can increase our understanding of this transition Scholars from the fields of international relations international political economy economics and security studies not only explore current theoretical debates on power and power shifts among entities but also provide fresh insights into relevant aspects of international power in the 21st century With a particular focus on aspects of international security trade and production new methods of identifying power and its sources are presented and their potential implications and challenges are discussed
