Rutter, Lyn Quine, 1994 This work based upon a conference of the European Association of Experimental Social Psychology examines the prevailing methods being used in social psychological research on health and safety It compares the Health Belief Model with the Theory of Planned Behaviour Handbook of Psychology and Health, Volume IV Shelley E Taylor, Jerome E Singer, Andrew Baum, 2022-02-16 First published in 1984 most of the contributors were trained as or by social psychologists All share a common approach focusing on the individual as s he is buffeted about by social forces and copes with these forces All consider situational and psychological factors and apply their expertise to the study of health related issues Social Psychology of Health Urmi Nanda Biswas, 2014-01-01 The idea of the book germinated in the symposium on Social Psychology of Health Issues and Concerns of India which was a part of XX Annual Convention of the National Academy of Psychology NAOP India organized in Jawaharlal Nehru University in December 2011 Few papers in this book were earlier presented in the conference and few invited articles are contributed by experts in this nascent but growing sub field of enquiry within social psychology The chapters included in this book aim to propagate that large amount of the burden of disease can be understood as a product of societal factors which pushes people towards health aversive behaviour The chapters emphasize the need for understanding of disease and health care in Indian traditional system well being of women in Indian society and the effectiveness of community health care systems The book also covers various psycho social approaches to handle HIV AIDS pandemic in India and highlights factors that could make social marketing effective for public health care programmes and services In addition the book attempts to discuss the psycho social issues of care giving suicide etc in Indian society The content of the book will be helpful as supplementary reading for various courses on health psychology taught at undergraduate and postgraduate level in the colleges and universities across the country The issues and concerns shared in the book may interest the health care practitioners and policy makers to think differently and rediscover the importance of social psychological parameters in effective delivery of health services Social Psychology and Health Margaret S. Alexander Haslam, 2018-05-01 British Psychology Society Textbook of the Year 2020 Why do people who are more socially connected live longer and have better health than those who are socially isolated Why are social ties at least as good for your health as not smoking having a good diet and taking regular exercise Why is treatment more effective when there is an alliance between therapist and client Until now researchers and practitioners have lacked a strong theoretical foundation for answering such questions This ground breaking book fills this gap by showing how social identity processes are key to understanding and effectively managing a broad range of health related problems Integrating a wealth of evidence that the authors and colleagues around the world have built up over the last decade The New Psychology of Health provides a powerful framework for reconceptualising the psychological dimensions of a range of conditions including stress trauma ageing depression addiction eating behaviour brain injury and pain Alongside reviews of current approaches to these various issues each chapter provides an in depth analysis of the ways in which theory and practice can be enriched by attention to social identity processes Here the authors show not only how an array of social and structural factors shape health outcomes through their impact on group life but also how this analysis can be harnessed to promote the delivery of social cures in a range of fields This is a must have volume for service providers practitioners students and researchers working in a wide range of disciplines and fields and will also be essential reading for anyone whose goal it is to improve the health and well being of people and communities in their care
