The Social Psychology of Bargaining Ian Morley, Geoffrey Stephenson, 2015-06-19 Originally published in 1977 this book deals with the social psychological factors which influence the process of bargaining It examines the structure behind the process by which it can be analysed and better understood Particular attention is paid to the character of negotiations in which agreements are obtained

The Social Psychology of Bargaining Ian E. Morley, 2015 Negotiations Daniel Druckman, 1977 There s an excitement generated in these essays as the authors seek to push toward the creation of new and alternative processes Not content only to tie the artificial phenomena of the laboratory to the field a number of the researchers are creating new phenomena in their own experiments and simulations These social inventions portend policy applications to negotiation processes that are of significance to those practitioners working within a myriad of sites from labor management relations to international affairs Harold Guetzkow The Social Psychology of Bargaining Ian Morley, Geoffrey Stephenson, 2015-06-19 Originally published in 1977 this book deals with the social psychological factors which influence the process of bargaining It examines the structure behind the process by which it can be analysed and better understood Particular attention is paid to the character of negotiations in which agreements are obtained

Negotiation Theory and Research Leigh L. Thompson, 2006-01-13 Negotiation is the most important skill anyone in the business world can have today because people must continually negotiate their jobs responsibilities and opportunities Yet very few people know strategies for maximizing their outcomes in everyday and in more formal business situations This volume provides a comprehensive overview of this emerging topic through original contributions from leaders in social psychology and negotiation research All topics covered are core to the understanding of the negotiation process and include decision making and judgment emotion and negotiation motivation and game theory Negotiation as a Social Process

Roderick M. Kramer, David M. Messick, 1995-04-06 While most studies in negotiation and conflict management have focused on cognitive aspects few have addressed the impact of social processes and contexts on the negotiation process Addressing this need Roderick M Kramer and David M Messick have brought together original theory and research from leading scholars in this emerging field A wide range of topics is covered including the role of group identification and accountability on negotiator judgement and decision making the importance of power dependence relations on negotiation intergroup bargaining coalitional dynamics in bargaining social influence processes in negotiation cross cultural perspectives of negotiation and the impact of social relationships on negotiation

Negotiation as a Social Process Roderick M. Kramer, David Messick, 1995-04-06 This is a valuable book It is a rare combination of appreciation and criticism it is an eloquent statement of conceptual advocacy Negotiation as a Social Process attempts the difficult task of the needed reform of a successful field and it does so by example as well as precept Kramer and Messick have done their research colleagues a great service let us hope that they make the most of it Robert L Kahn Professor Emeritus The University of Michigan Negotiation as a Social Process puts the social back in negotiation theory and research where it belongs Consisting of contributions by some of today's leading negotiation researchers this volume is a direct response to the undue emphasis placed in recent years on the role of cognition in negotiation Just as one needs two hands to clap unless you are a Zen Buddhist one needs two or more sides to negotiate This excellent collection explicitly addresses the social and relational context in which negotiations invariably occur and in doing so returns the discussion to its proper place Jeff Rubin Program on Negotiation Harvard Law School In the past several years negotiation and conflict management research has emerged as one of the most active and productive areas of research in organizational behavior Although most research has focused on the cognitive aspects of negotiation few address the impact of social processes and contexts on the negotiation process Because negotiations always occur in the context of some preexisting social relationship between the negotiating parties this neglect is unfortunate Editors Rod Kramer and Dave Messick have brought together original theory and research from many of the leading scholars in this important and emerging area of negotiation research Negotiation as a Social Process covers a wide range of topics including the role of group identification and accountability on negotiator judgment and decision making the importance of power dependence relations on negotiation intergroup bargaining coalitional dynamics in bargaining social influence processes in negotiation cross cultural perspectives on negotiation and the impact of social relationships on negotiation Scholars students and professionals in organization management and communication studies will find Negotiation as a Social Process an important and thought provoking volume

Resolving Development Disputes Through Negotiations Timothy J. Sullivan, 2012-12-06 In the last decade disputes between developers and local communities over proposed construction projects have led to increasing litigation Environmental legislation in particular has greatly enhanced the rights and powers of organized groups that desire to participate in local development decisions These powers have allowed citizen groups to block undesired and socially unacceptable projects such as highways through urban areas and sprawling suburban developments At the same time these powers have produced a collective inability to construct many needed projects that produce adverse local impacts Prisons airports hospitals waste treatment plants and energy facilities all face years of litigation before a final decision At times prolonged litigation has produced especially high costs to all participants Despite these new powers citizen action has often been limited to participation in public hearings or adjudicatory proceedings Typically this occurs so late in the decision process that citizen input has very little affect in shaping a project s design Those who dislike some element of a project often have little choice other than to oppose the entire project through litigation
