Development of the Arabic Language is a general introduction for students to the history of the Arabic language. It is divided into two parts: the pre-Islamic language up to the emergence of the first well-known works of Classical Arabic. Secondly, the transition from the pre-Islamic situation to the complex Arabic language forms after the emergence of Islam and the Arab conquests both in Arabia and in the diaspora. The book focuses on the pre-Islamic linguistic situation where the linguistic geography and relevant demographic aspects of pre-Islamic Arabia will be introduced. In addition, the book will also discuss the communicative contexts and varieties of Modern Arabic. The book includes readings, discussion questions, and data sets to provide a complete textbook and resource for teachers and students of the history of Arabic.

Shared Languages, Shared Identities, Shared Stories Doris Schüpbach, 2008. This book explores how 15 immigrants from German-speaking Switzerland in Australia make sense of their migratory experience of building a new life in a different language. It does so by examining their written and oral life stories. The analysis takes two complementary perspectives. Firstly, the construction of language identities is studied through the language practices and attitudes discussed and displayed by the participants. Secondly, the ways in which they create coherence in their life stories focuses on autobiographical identities where language is a medium of sense-making across their life course. The combined perspectives highlight the diversity among the participants and the complexities of language and identity construction in the context of migration.

The Oxford Handbook of Corpus Phonology Jacques Durand, Ulrike Gut, Gjert Kristoffersen, 2014-06-05. This handbook presents the first systematic account of corpus phonology: the employment of corpora for studying speakers and listeners' acquisition and knowledge of the sound system of their native languages and the principles underlying those systems. The first part of the book discusses the design, compilation, and use of phonological corpora, while the second looks at specific applications. Part 3 presents the tools and methods used, while the final part examines a number of currently available phonological corpora in various languages. It will appeal not only to those working with phonological corpora but also to researchers and students of phonology and phonetics more generally, as well as to all those interested in language variation, dialectology, language acquisition, and sociolinguistics.

Words Like Birds Jenanne Ferguson, 2019-02-01. What does it mean to speak Sakha in the city? Words Like Birds, a linguistic ethnography of Sakha discourses and practices in urban far-eastern Russia, examines the factors that have aided speakers in maintaining and adapting their minority language over the course of four hundred years of contact with Russian speakers and the federal power apparatus. Words Like Birds analyzes modern Sakha linguistic sensibilities and practices in the urban space of Yakutsk. Sakha is a north-Siberian Turkic language spoken primarily in the Sakha Republic, Yakutia, in the northeastern Russian Federation. For Sakha speakers, Russian colonization in the region inaugurated a tumultuous history in which their language was at times officially supported and promoted and at other times repressed and discouraged. Jenanne Ferguson explores the communicative norms that arose in response to the top-down promotion of the Russian language in the public sphere and reveals how Sakha ways of speaking became emplaced in villages and the city's private spheres Focusing on the language ideologies and practices of urban bilingual Sakha Russian speakers Ferguson illuminates the changes that have taken place in the first two post Soviet decades in contexts where Russian speech and communicative norms dominated during the Soviet era Weaving together three major themes language ideologies and ontologies language trajectories and linguistic syncretism this study reveals how Sakha speakers transform and adapt their beliefs evaluations and practices to revalorize a language maintain and create a sense of belonging and make their words heard in Sakha again in many domains of city life Like the moveable spirited words the focus of Words Like Birds is mobility change and flow the tracing of the situation of bilinguals in Yakutsk
