Lekson,2015-03-19 In this return to his lively provocative reconceptualization of the meaning of Chaco Canyon and its monumental 11th century structures Stephen H Lekson expands over time and distance our understanding of the political and economic integration of the American Southwest Lekson s argument that Chaco did not stand alone but rather was the first of three capitals in a vast networked region incorporating most of the Pueblo world has gained credence over the past 15 years Here he marshals new evidence and new interpretations to further the case for ritual astronomical alignment of monumental structures and cities great ceremonial roads and the shift of the regional capital first from Chaco Canyon to the Aztec Ruins site and then to Paquim all located on the same longitudinal meridian Along the line from Aztec to Paquim Lekson synthesizes 1000 years of Southwestern prehistory explaining phenomena as diverse as the Great North Road macaw feathers Pueblo mythology the recycling of iconic symbols over time founder burials and the rise of kachina ceremonies to yield a fascinating argument that will interest anyone concerned with the prehistory and history of the American Southwest The Kiva ,1974 Climatological Data, Arizona United States. social movements war and cultural change The result is the definitive story of Western movies which contributes to our understanding of not just movie history but also the mythic West and American history Because of its subject matter and unique approach that blends movies and history The Sagebrush Trail should appeal to anyone interested in Western movies pop culture the American West and recent American history and culture The mythic West beckons but eludes Yet glimpses of its utopian potential can always be found even if just for a few hours in the realm of Western movies There on the silver screen the mythic West continues to ride tall in the saddle along a sagebrush trail that reveals valuable clues about American life and thought
