Route 128 and the Birth of the Age of High Tech Alan R. Earls, 2002 From the invention of ether and the telephone in the nineteenth century to the birth of radar and the computer in the twentieth century Greater Boston has been a hotbed for creating and nurturing new ideas In the early years of the century the ground was being sown for a new economy to supplant the slowly declining shoe and textile manufacturing industries that had long dominated the region After World War II Route 128 dubbed by critics the road to nowhere became the locus of this high tech development Although originally intended to ease gridlock and provide an avenue to recreational opportunities by the late 1950s Route 128 was dotted with industrial parks and new subdivisions It was soon known as the Golden Crescent in recognition of the prosperity it brought to the whole region Route 128 and the Birth of the Age of High Tech tells the intertwining stories of the construction of the nation s first circumferential beltway and the burgeoning high tech industries of Massachusetts which helped spawn the modern age of personal computers the Internet and biotechnology The General Radio Story Frederick Van Veen, 2011-07-01 The General

Radio Story tells the remarkable tale of one of the true pioneers of electronics Founded in 1915 GR gave the young electronics industry then called radio the essential tools of the trade wavemeters signal generators voltmeters frequency standards etc and was no less innovative in its employment policies navigating the Great Depression without laying off a single employee and even making its workers whole when a local bank failed As measuring instruments morphed into ATE automatic test equipment General Radio reinvented itself as GenRad and was the first to offer automatic circuit board test systems GR s 86 year run ended in 2001 when the Company was acquired by Teradyne Inc
