The Liveliest Art A Mentor:

The Films of D. W. Griffith Scott Simmon, 1993-07-30 An introduction to the work of the first widely acknowledged master filmmaker

The Mentor, 1913

It's Only a Movie! Raymond J. Haberski Jr., 2021-10-21 Once derided as senseless entertainment movies have gradually assumed a place among the arts Raymond Haberski's provocative and insightful book traces the trajectory of this evolution throughout the twentieth century from nickelodeon amusements to the age of the financial blockbuster Haberski begins by looking at the barriers to film's acceptance as an art form including the Chicago Motion Picture Commission hearings of 1918-1920 one of the most revealing confrontations over the use of censorship in the motion picture industry He then examines how movies overcame the stigma attached to popular entertainment through such watershed events as the creation of the Museum of Modern Art's Film Library in the 1920s The arguments between Pauline Kael and Andrew Sarris heralded a golden age of criticism and Haberski focuses on the roles of Kael Sarris James Agee Roger Ebert and others in the creation of cinephilia Described by Susan Sontag as born of the conviction that cinema was an art unlike any other this love of cinema centered on coffee houses universities art theaters film festivals and of course foreign films The lively debates over the place of movies in American culture began to wane in the 1970s Haberski places the blame on the loss of cultural authority and on the increasing irrelevance of the meaning of art He concludes with a persuasive call for the re-emergence of a middle ground between art and entertainment something more complex ambiguous and vexing something worth thought
