Frank Stewart, Tony Barnstone, Ming Di

The Long Silence Of The Mohawk Carpet Smokestacks:

The Long Silence of the Mohawk Carpet Smokestacks Stephen Haven, 2004 These brilliantly descriptive poems begin where the author did in the town of Amsterdam New York along the Mohawk River among hard childhood memories of a factory town beginning to shut down Along with the trails through the industrial wilderness the river the bars and the young poet's preparations for escape we see his preacher father and the tragedy laden family life that finally yields him up Later the poet pauses to treat another kind of New England background the Puritan graveyard of the seventeenth century imaginatively recreating the distant ghosts that still enter his thoughts in Provincetown at the Millennium Finally in the section Homework his thoughts return to his birthplace as he seeks to reconcile his memories of home with his departure and survival

The River Lock Stephen Haven, 2008-04-17 Pulled between the disparate spheres of homelife with his minister father and the world of sex drugs and violence of his closest friends author Stephen Haven relates his journey of self discovery in this poignant memoir After a fourteen year absence from his home in Amsterdam New York Haven returns to the streets that molded his character Through memories of his adolescence Haven relives his youth in this economically deprived community and explores the values of friendship loyalty and privilege A true bildungsroman The River Lock traces the forging of Haven's identity from the clash of the two worlds of his youth home and street His return to his childhood past allows Haven to understand and describe how his growing understanding of art culture spirituality and class melded to create a man able to live fully in two distinct worlds the foundation of the man he is today

The Flight from Meaning Stephen Haven, 2025-02-04 According to T R Hummer Stephen Haven is a poet of incisive discipline deployed in the service of a passionate humanistic ethos His poems reflect concern for humanity and concern for language humanity's best hope The poems in Haven's new collection The Flight from Meaning have been shaped by and serve as responses to contemporary culture's predilection for violence spectacle and distraction and the ways they flatten and diminish our experience of the world But for Haven meaning is something rich mysterious and multi layered and our apprehension of it can only be sustained by the imagination's capacity to counter the tyranny of rationalism The Flight from Meaning contains meditations on American history on the nature of religion in our time on racism and its legacy in the post Civil Rights era and brings the reader to intimate poems about family in Haven's industrial hometown in upstate New York and to poems drawn from years of living and teaching in Beijing Houston Cleveland Boston and New York City In the literary family to which Stephen Haven belongs his poems embrace both Dickinson and Whitman Stevens and Frost Eliot and Williams Hart Crane Robert Hass Cormac McCarthy Flannery O Connor Roethke Pasolini Rilke Gl ck Trethewey Levine Levis Komunyakaa and many others who dodge simplistic dichotomies in favor of the way the ear the eye the mind and feeling achieve a lightness of being and a range of meaning that trouble and enrich
