The Self in Social Judgment Mark D. Alicke, David A. Dunning, Joachim Krueger, 2013-05-13 The volume begins with a historical overview of the self in social judgment and outlines the major issues Subsequent chapters all written by leading experts in their respective areas identify and elaborate four major themes regarding the self in social judgment the role of the self as an information source for evaluating others or what has been called social projection the assumption of personal superiority as reflected in the pervasive tendency for people to view their characteristics more favorably than those of others the role of the self as a comparison standard from or toward which other people's behaviors and attributes are assimilated or contrasted the relative weight people place on the individual and collective selves in defining their attributes and comparing them to those of other people

Public Self and Private Self Roy F. Baumeister, 2012-12-06 Psychology has worked hard to explore the inner self Modern psychology was born in Wundt's laboratory and Freud's consulting room where the inner self was pressed to reveal some of its secrets Freud in particular devoted most of his life to exploring the hidden recesses inside the self hidden even from the conscious mind he said From Freud's work right down to the latest journal article on self schemata or self esteem psychologists have continued to tell us about the inner self More recently psychology has turned some of its attention to the outer self that is the self that is seen and known by other people Various psychologists have studied how the outer self is formed impression formation how people control their outer selves impression management and so forth But how is the outer self related to the inner self There is an easy answer but it is wrong The easy answer is that the outer self is mostly the same as the inner self Put another way it is that people reveal their true selves to others in a honest and straightforward fashion and that others accurately perceive the individual as he or she really is Sometimes it works out that way but often it does not The issue is far too complex for the easy answer

The Self in European and North American Culture J.H. Oosterwegel, R.A. Wicklund, 2012-12-06 How diverse or potentially overlapping are the numerous self models self theories and directions of self research It has become clear that the processes associated with the self are complex and diverse and that many of the approaches associated with the self have been pursued in isolation Moreover the fact of there being different traditions within developmental and social psychology as well as different traditions in Europe and North America has also led to a certain cacophony when we examine the self field as a whole The chapters here confront these differences trying to come to terms with phenomena that are overarching that extend through the dimensions of developmental psychology social psychology motivation psychology and parts of clinical psychology The book as whole gives a clear presentation of the issues questions and phenomena that surface in research fields known as self psychology      Social Psychology: Social Identity Gary Elliott, 2014-07-07 Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Psychology Social Psychology Atlantic International University language English abstract The content of this paper discusses three separate yet in my opinion interlinked aspects of social development We begin with the concept of social identity the development of one's identity almost from birth through adolescence into adulthood The identity as a result of our interactions with those around us creates our self concept and ultimately our self esteem Our gender and gender role development adds to our concept of self and determines our concept of who we are in relation to others and the world As we grow our interactions with those around us commencing with the family unit gives credence to our understanding of our self value We learn about people's perceptions of us through their dealings with us As such our self esteem has the potential to promote or hinder healthy relationship development as we move through life from the core family relationships to our peer significant other and spousal relationships The success or failure of our relationships can be linked to our self esteem We learn about our self perception how others perceive us and what kind of responses we expect from those we come into contact with Dealing with our self esteem as we move through life suggests that interactions are tainted or coloured by a positive or negative self concept respectively We will see that perception is a key determinant in the generation of frustration when dealing with those around us These frustrations are just one component of factors that may lead to the expression of inappropriate levels of aggression We discuss other causes of aggression and ultimately seek to outline techniques that can assist individuals to create a less aggressive or more appropriate form of anger display As an educator the focus of this paper has pertinence for the school environment but is not limited and moves beyond that
