Social Work and the Environment Michael Kim Zapf, 2009 This ground breaking new work provides a detailed and extensive comparison of how the physical environment has been conceptualized in social work and other professions and offers a new and attractive foundational metaphor for social work The author acknowledges the need for greater awareness and action regarding environmental impacts and the book promotes more comprehensive notions of responsibility identity and stewardship that lead to a dynamic metaphor of people as place as the foundation for relevant social work practice in the early 21st century Why is that a profession with a declared focus on person in environment has been so silent on the environmental crisis Mainstream social work theory has narrowed the understanding of environment to include merely the social environment but this approach is no longer sufficient for participation in multi disciplinary efforts to tackle urgent environmental issues Transformative notions of responsibility identity and stewardship have been developed on the fringes of our professional community rural remote social workers Aboriginal social workers and international and spiritual social workers They must now move to the core of the profession SAGE Readings for Social Problems Benjamin Drury, 2021-02-02

Reading the Architecture of the Underprivileged Classes Nnamdi Elleh, 2016-04-01 The expansion of cities in the late C19th and middle part of the C20th in the developing and the emerging economies of the world has one major urban corollary it caused the proliferation of unplanned parts of the cities that are identified by a plethora of terminologies such as bidonville favela ghetto informal settlements and shantytown Often the dwellings in such settlements are described as shacks architecture of necessity and architecture of everyday experience in the modern and the contemporary metropolis This volume argues that the types of structures and settlements built by people who do not have access to architectural services in many cities in the developing parts of the world evolved simultaneously with the types of buildings that are celebrated in architecture textbooks as modernism It not only shows how architects can learn from traditional or vernacular dwellings in order to create habitations for the people of low income groups in public housing scenarios but also demonstrates how the architecture of the economically underprivileged classes goes beyond culturally inspired tectonic interpretations of vernacular traditions by architects for high profile clients Moreover the essays explore how the resourceful dwellings of the underprivileged inhabitants of the great cities in developing parts of the world pioneered certain concepts of modernism and contemporary design practices such as sustainable and de constructivist design Using projects from Africa Asia South and Central America as well as Austria and the USA this volume interrogates and brings to the attention of academics students and practitioners of architecture the deliberate disqualification of the modern architecture produced by the urban poor in different parts of the world
