Social Efficiency:

Social Efficiency and Instrumentalism in Education James M. Magrini, 2014-04-03 Distinct among contemporary philosophical studies focused on education this book engages the history of phenomenological thought as it moves from philosophy proper the European phenomenological hermeneutic tradition through curriculum studies It thus presents the best of both worlds for the reader there is a play or movement from philosophy proper to educational philosophy and then back again in order to locate and explicate what is intimated suggested and in some cases left unsaid by educational philosophers This amounts to a work on education philosophy that elucidates through various permutations within the unique foci of each essay the general phenomenological theme of the fundamental ontology of the human being as primordial learner Reflecting his experience as scholar teacher and perennial learner the author suggests how research in phenomenology might prove beneficial to the enhancement of both the theoretical and practical aspects of education readers are invited to envision education as far more than merely a means by which to organize an effective learning experience in which knowledge is assimilated and skill sets are efficiently imparted but rather as a holistic and integrated process in which knowing acting and valuing are original ways of Being in the world On Measuring Aggregate "social Efficiency" Martin Ravallion, 2003

Developing a Critical Border Dialogism Timothy G. Cashman, 2015-05-01

This book is based upon research conducted both before and after a visit to Kota Kinabalu, Malaysia, in March 2003. During this time period, United States US bombs fell on Baghdad, Iraq. An invasion of US and British ground forces in Baghdad and other Iraqi cities followed the initial bombing. Events during the onset of the war became a catalyst for gaining insight on how the US invasion of Iraq impacted the lives of teachers and their students in Malaysia. In June and July of 2003, the researcher returned to interview educators in Sabah, Malaysia. Follow-up electronic communications with educators were conducted through the remainder of 2003. After the research in Malaysia, the researcher conducted studies of educators' perspectives in Mexico, Canada, and the US. The key objective of the investigations in all four countries was to uncover attitudes and pedagogical comparisons of educators and their students regarding US policies, including war and counterterrorism policies. Studies in the US took place in close proximity to the US-Mexico international border. Studies were analyzed through the lenses of place-based pedagogy, border pedagogy, and issues-centered approaches that provided baseline information for transnational comparisons and cross-comparative case studies. In this manner, the researcher contemplated the intersection of a critical pedagogy of place and border pedagogy. From these studies emerged new understandings and the development of a critical border dialogism. This critical border dialogism is based on following principles: heteroglossia, meliorism, critical cosmopolitanism, nepantla dialogism, feminism, and pragmatic hope. By its nature, critical border dialogism engages us in multidirectional discourses that allow us to tackle issues and work toward enduring conflict resolutions. When applied in classroom settings, critical border dialogism moves educators, students, and cultural workers in the direction of a critical border praxis.
