of diverse media in museum contexts and discusses how technology is reinventing the museum. It considers how technological changes from photography and television through to digital mobile media have given rise to new habits, forms of attention and behaviors. It explores how research methods can be used to understand people's relationships with media technologies and display techniques in museum contexts as well as the new opportunities media offer for museums to engage with their visitors. Entries written by leading experts examine the transformation of history and memory by new media, the ways in which exhibitions mediate visitor experience, how designers and curators can establish new kinds of relationships with visitors, the expansion of the museum beyond its walls and its insertion into a wider commercial and corporate landscape. Focusing on formal, theoretical and technical aspects of exhibition practice, this in-depth volume explores questions of temporality, attachment to objects, atmospheric and immersive exhibition design, the reinvention of the exhibition medium and much more.

Vinyl Dominik Bartmanski, Ian Woodward, 2020-06-08. Recent years have seen not just a revival but a rebirth of the analogue record. More than merely a nostalgic craze, vinyl has become a cultural icon. As music consumption migrated to digital and online, this seemingly obsolete medium became the fastest growing format in music sales. Whilst vinyl never ceased to be the favorite amongst many music lovers and DJs, from the late 1980s the recording industry regarded it as an outdated relic, consigned to dusty domestic corners and obscure record shops. So why is vinyl now experiencing a rebirth? Dominik Bartmanski and Ian Woodward explore this question by combining a cultural sociological approach with insights from material culture studies. Presenting vinyl as a multifaceted cultural object, they investigate the reasons behind its persistence within our technologically accelerated culture. Informed by media analysis, urban ethnography and the authors' interviews with musicians, DJs, sound engineers, record store owners, collectors and cutting edge label chiefs from a range of metropolitan centres renowned for thriving music scenes, including London, New York, Tokyo, Melbourne and especially Berlin, what emerges is a story of a modern icon.

Background Noise Brandon LaBelle, 2006-01-01. The rise of a prominent auditory culture reveals the degree to which sound art is lending definition to the 21st Century. And yet, sound art still lacks related literature to compliment and expand the realm of practice. Background Noise sets out an historical overview while at the same time shaping that history according to what sound art reveals: the dynamics of art to operate spatially through media of reproduction and broadcast and in relation to the intensities of communication and its contextual framework.
