Undergraduate's Companion to African Writers and Their Web Sites Miriam E. Conteh-Morgan, 2005-10-30 Now a firmly established part of world literature course offerings in many general education curricula African literature is no longer housed exclusively with African Studies programs and is often studied in English French Portuguese Women s Studies and Comparative Studies departments This book helps fill the great need for research materials on this topic presenting the best resources available for 300 African writers These writers have been carefully selected to include both well known writers and those less commonly studied yet highly influential They are drawn from both the Sub Sahara and the Maghreb the major geographical regions of Africa The study of Africa was introduced into the curriculum of institutions of higher learning in the United States in the 1960s when the Black Consciousness movement in the United States and the Cold War and decolonization movements in Africa created a need for the systematic study of other regions of the world Between 1986 and 1991 three Africans won Nobel literature prizes Soyinka Mahfouz and Gordimer and the visibility of African writers increased They are now a firmly established part of world literature courses in many general education curricula throughout North America African Writers is meant to serve as a resource for introductory material on 300 writers from 39 countries These writers were selected on the basis on two criteria that there is material on them in an easily available reference work and that there is some information of research value on free Web sites Each writer is from the late 19th or 20th century with the notable exception of Olaudah Equiano an 18th century African whose slave narrative is generally considered the first work of African literature All entries are annotated Festivities and Rejoicings on the Coming of Age of His Grace, William Alexander Louis Stephen, Duke of Hamilton, Brandon and Chatelherault, 12th March, 1866 William Anderson, 1866

Experiments in Freedom Anton Krueger, 2009-10-02 Experiments in Freedom examines ways in which identities have been represented in recent South African play texts published in English It begins by exploring descriptions of identity from various philosophical psychological and anthropological perspectives and elaborates ways in which drama is uniquely suited to represent as well as to effect transformations of identity In exploring the fraught terrain of identity studies the book examines a selection of play texts in terms of five different discourse of identity gender nationalism ethnicity syncretism and race Instead of building a sustained thesis throughout his text Krueger writes in short bursts about a multiplicity of topics extending his explorations rhizomatically into the crevices of a new South African society loath to relinquish its stranglehold on the politics of identity Sorrows and Rejoicings John Glover, Marcy Harriell, Judith Light, Charlayne Woodard, Second Stage Theatre (New York, N.Y.), 2002 St. Nicholas Mary Mapes Dodge, 1891 South African Theatre Journal , 2006
