Temples of Delight John Martin Robinson, 1990 Temples of Delight John Martin Robinson, National Trust (Great Britain), 1990 Estate Landscapes : Design, Improvement and Power in the Post-medieval Landscape Jonathan Finch, Katherine Giles, 2007 An exciting study of the social and landscape phenomena of the Estate Landscape In recent years the post medieval landscape has attracted new interest from archaeologists historians and geographers concerned to understand the development of the historic environment One of the key structuring elements within these landscapes from the sixteenth century until the aftermath of the Second World War was undoubtedly the landed estate However it was not until the late nineteenth century that any systematic attempt to quantify the presence of these estates was undertaken prompted by the move to democratic reform and the persistent link between political power and landed wealth Yet the importance of the landed estate in structuring power social relationships and both agricultural and industrial production was not limited to the UK From the eighteenth century the link between the UK estates and patterns of landholding and exploitation in the colonies became increasingly complex and recursive This volume explores the relationships between the form and structure of British and Colonial estate landscapes their agricultural management and the political structures and social relationships they reproduced The articles address themes as diverse as the creation and development of the agrarian landscape improvement ornamental landscapes and gardens and estate architecture Overall it highlights the wealth and diversity of existing scholarship and suggests new directions for post medieval archaeology in this dynamic area of research

Richard Woods (1715-1793) Fiona Cowell, 2009 A contemporary of the famous landscape designer Capability Brown Richard Woods has never received the recognition he deserves in contrast to Brown he emphasised the pleasure ground and kitchen garden with a more pronounced use of flowers than was general among the landscape improvers of his time He liked variety and incident in his plans and where he was employed on a larger scale the encroachment of the pleasure ground into the park created the Woodsian pleasure park In this important work of detection and biography Fiona Cowell analyses his designs and explores his activities as a plantsman a determined amateur architect and a farmer In particular she shows the difficulties he found as a Catholic living in penal times examining the difficulties encountered by both Woods and his Catholic patrons and placing the man and his work in their wider social and economic context Unjustly neglected in the past he is here given his rightful place among the creators of the English landscape style The Nation's First Monument and the Origins of the American Memorial Tradition Sally Webster, 2017-07-05 The commemorative tradition in early American art is given sustained consideration for the first time in Sally Webster's study of public monuments and the construction of an American patronymic tradition Until now no attempt has been made to create a coherent early history of the carved symbolic language of American liberty and independence Establishing as the basis of her discussion the fledgling nation's first monument Jean Jacques Caffi's Monument to General Richard Montgomery commissioned in January of 1776 Webster builds on the themes of commemoration and national patrimony ultimately positing that like its instruments of government America drew from the Enlightenment and its reverence for the classical past Webster's study is grounded in the political and social worlds of New York City moving chronologically from the 1760s to the 1790s with a concluding chapter considering the monument which lies just east of Ground Zero against the backdrop of 9/11. It is an original contribution to historical scholarship in fields ranging from early American art sculpture New York history and the Revolutionary era. A chapter is devoted to the exceptional role of Benjamin Franklin in the commissioning and design of the monument Webster's study provides a new focus on New York City as the 18th century city in which the European tradition of public commemoration was reconstituted as monuments to liberty's heroes. "Turquerie and the Politics of Representation, 1728-1876" Nebahat Avcioglu, 2017-07-05 In this first full length study devoted explicitly to the examination of Ottoman Turkish inspired architecture in Western Europe during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Nebahat Avcioglu rethinks the question of cultural frontiers not as separations but as a rapport of heterogeneities. Reclaiming turquerie as cross cultural art from the confines of the inconsequential exoticism it is often reduced to Avcioglu analyses hitherto neglected images designs and constructions and links Western interest in the Ottoman Empire to notions of self representation and national politics. In investigating why and to what effect Europeans turned to the Turk for inspiration Avcioglu provides a far reaching cultural reinterpretation of art and architecture in this period. Presented as a series of case studies focusing on three specific building types kiosks mosques and baths chosen on the basis that each represents the first full fledged manifestations of their respective genres to be constructed in Western Europe the study delves into the cultural politics of architectural forms and styles. The author argues that the appropriation of those building types was neither accidental nor did it merely reflect European domination of another culture. The process was essentially dialectical and contributed to transculturation in both the West and the East. The Princess's Garden Vanessa Berridge, 2015-08-15 The untold story of how our national obsession with gardening came to be. The Quest for the Gesamtkunstwerk and Richard Wagner Hilda Meldrum Brown, 2016-04-15 The Gesamtkunstwerk total work of art once a key concept in Wagner studies has become problematic. This book sheds light on this conundrum by first tracing the development of the concept in the 19th century through selected examples some of which include combinations of different art forms. It then focuses on the culmination of the Gesamtkunstwerk in Wagner's theories and in the practice of his late music dramas of which Der Ring des Nibelungen is the most complete representation. Finally the book contrasts the view of the Ring as a fusion of dramatic text and music with the 20th century trend towards Deconstruction in Wagnerian productions and the importance of Ring. Against this trend a case is made here for a fresh critical approach and a reconsideration of the nature and basis for the fundamental unity which has hitherto been widely perceived in Wagner's Ring. Approaches through Leitmotiv alone are no longer acceptable. However in conjunction with another principle Moment which Wagner insisted on combining with Motive these can be ingeniously staged.

and steered to dramatic ends by means of musical dynamics and expressive devices such as accumulation Analysis of the two Erda scenes demonstrates how this complex combination of resources acts as a powerful means of fusion of the musical and dramatic elements in the Ring and confirms its status as a Gesamtkunstwerk
