

The Little Green Cabin

George H. Rothacker

The Little Green Cabin:

The Little Green Cabin Lan Luo, Penelope Ann Herbert, 1989 Little Green Loretta Stinson, 2011-02-28 In Little Green Loretta Stinson's stunning redemptive first novel tragedy leaves Janie Marek orphaned and in the care of her stepmother. The novel opens two years later in 1976 when Janie at fourteen runs away. A ride she's hitchhiked leaves her on the freeway outside a Northwestern town. A strip club called The Habit is the closest thing within walking distance and Janie finds herself working there. Janie falls for Paul Jesse, a drug dealer, and moves in with him as he spirals into addiction and becomes physically abusive. As the violence escalates, Janie finds a job in a bookstore and begins to establish her independence. Leaving Paul after a brutal beating, Janie must reconcile their relationship and make the most difficult, most dangerous choice she'll ever make. Like Dorothy Allison's Bastard Out of Carolina and Alice Walker's The Color Purple, Loretta Stinson portrays the psychology of a woman who has experienced violence at the hands of someone she loves and the complexity of leaving with sensitivity and insight. This is a life-affirming story about a woman who finds strength in books, in the promise of education, and in the community of friends who help her find a way out. Arms and the Man, 1915 Little Green Men Scott A. Martin, 2010 Several young campers and their adult counselors are stranded at a mountaintop wilderness retreat on the night of October 30th, 1938. When someone switches on the radio to Orson Welles' War of the Worlds live broadcast, the night that panics America also becomes the night that panics Camp Gitchiegoomie. Are little green men from Mars actually surrounding the mess hall, ready to make a mess of everyone inside? Can the feuding boys and girls work together to save themselves from the mysterious alien invasion? And why is that strange hairy bug-eyed monster lurking in the bushes? P 4 of cover The Little Green Car George H. Rothacker, 2024-06-14 Though Dillon's wife Doris passed away after more than 50 years of marriage, her death didn't diminish the relationship they'd shared. Instead, it enabled a second act to be added to their story, one that proved that love doesn't have to die but sometimes just requires a slightly altered ending. 82-year-old Dillon Everette lost his wife to pancreatic cancer in April 2029. Following her death, Dillon remained in his home, but his three children thought that he should move to a retirement community and perhaps even cease to drive due to a few mishaps of his that disturbed them. They loved their father, but Dillon, who still conversed with his deceased wife, strove to maintain his independence. The children's infringement on his life provoked Dillon to escape from his home and then, by planning a trip south in his 1953 MG TD, which he'd rebuilt himself nearly 35 years ago. Assisted by his financial advisor, he made sure that his house, property, and finances were in order and decided to retrace some of the trips taken during his earlier life with his wife and young family by heading south in the MG on his deceased wife's birthday, November 13th. After a few days on the road, he became involved in an incident from which he emerged a hero and acclaimed for his bravery on national news. His children read and heard about their father's adventure and thought he had lost his mind, but Dillon was approached by a documentary film producer to possibly record the story of his life and his accomplishments. The Little Green Car is about
