The Living Tree The Changing Meaning Of Being Chinese Today:

The Living Tree ,1991 The Living Tree Wei-ming Tu,1994 The underlying themes of this volume are the relations between a central cultural core situated in China and the various peripheral communities around the world where large numbers of Chinese have settled and the way those relations have changed over time What does it mean today to be Chinese These questions have many dimensions which are addressed in varied ways by eleven of the leading scholars of Chinese intellectual life from several parts of the globe In the twentieth century China experienced a level of cultural confusion it had never before known One product of the turmoil was an unprecedented rate of emigration Another was the challenging of traditional Chinese culture by several Western ideologies including Marxism The whole concept of modernity with all its ambiguities had profound effects on many aspects of the Chinese world both in China and abroad These essays attempt to illuminate how the events of the twentieth century in China affected the Chinese living outside China and suggest important reciprocal influences The Living Tree ,1991 The living tree ,1991 Paper Swordsmen John Christopher Hamm,2005-01-01 The martial arts novel is one of the most distinctive and widely read forms of modern Chinese fiction John Christopher Hamm offers the first in depth English language study of this fascinating and influential genre focusing on the work of its undisputed twentieth century master Jin Yong Global Hakka Jessieca Leo,2015-08-25 In Global Hakka Hakka Identity in the Remaking Jessieca Leo offers a needed update on Hakka history and a reassessment of Hakka identity in the global and transnational contexts Leo gives fresh insights into concepts such as ethnicity identity Han Chineseness overseas Chinese and migration in relation to Hakka identity Globalization transnationalism deterritorialization and migration drive the rapid transformation and reformation of Hakka identity to the point of no return Dehakkalization through cultural adaptation or genetic transfer has created an elastic identity in the global Hakka and different kinds of Hakka communities around the world Jessieca Leo convincingly shows that the concept of being Hakka in the twenty first century is better referred to as Hakkaness a quality determined by lifestyle and personal choices Among the Chinese tradition long resisted the idea of migration In practice however there were many layers of adaptation to different circumstances The Hakka have been exceptional in having always been conscious of their migratory successes This book explores with great sensitivity how Hakka history outside China influences the way they respond to the new global environment Combining careful scholarship with self discovery Jessieca Leo captures the processes by which one group of Chinese became migrants who consider migration as normal Her fascinating and original work takes the study of the Hakka to a higher level and offers fresh insights for understanding how other migratory Chinese are transforming tradition today Professor Wang Gungwu National University of Singapore Power and Identity in the Chinese World Order Billy K.L. So,John Fitzgerald,Jianli Huang,James K. Chin,2003-03-01 Wang Gungwu is one of the most influential historians of his generation Initially renowned for his pioneering work on the structure of power in early imperial China he is more widely known for expanding the horizons of Chinese history to include the histories of the Chinese and their descendents outside China It is probably no coincidence Philip Kuhn observes that the most comprehensive historian of the Overseas Chinese is the historian most firmly grounded in the history of China itself This book is a celebration of the life work and impact of Professor Wang Gungwu over the past four decades It commemorates his contribution to the study of Chinese history and the abiding influence he has exercised over later generations of historians particularly in the Asia Pacific region The book begins with an historiographical survey by Philip Kuhn Francis Lee Higginson Professor of History at Harvard University of Wang Gungwu s enduring contribution to scholarship It concludes with an engaging oral history of Professor Wang s life career and research trajectory The intervening chapters explore many of the fields in which Wang Gungwu s influence has been felt over the years including questions of political authority national identity commercial life and the history of the diaspora from imperial times to the present day Each of these chapters is authored by a former student of Professor Wang now working and teaching in Hong Kong Southeast Asia Australasia Taiwan and Canada

American Chinatowns Chuo Li, 2025-05-30 American Chinatowns Race Identity and Postwar Urban Redevelopment offers a captivating exploration of the vibrant yet contested landscapes of Chinatowns across the United States Through a critical and nuanced lens Li examines how postwar urban redevelopment racial dynamics and identity politics have profoundly transformed these iconic neighborhoods Blending rich historical research with sharp analysis this book uncovers the interplay of race urban planning ideologies and social equity shedding light on how Chinatowns navigate resilience and reinvention amid shifting urban paradigms Li s work highlights the tension between cultural preservation and modernization exploring the built environment alongside community driven spatial activism to reveal how these urban spaces persist as sites of resistance identity and transformation American Chinatowns is a compelling study of cultural landscape urban justice and the politics of city making This book is essential reading for scholars urbanists and anyone intrigued by the intersection of race identity and the evolving narratives of America s cities This book invites readers to rethink the meaning of place heritage and equity in the urban fabric

From Tian'anmen to Times Square Gina Marchetti, 2006 From Tian anmen to Times Square Transnational China and the Chinese Diaspora on Global Screens 1989 1997 explores the important interconnections involving questions of race ethnicity gender and sexuality on world screens by examining a range of films videos and digital works associated with global Chinese culture The ways in which the world has imagined China and the images the Chinese have used to depict themselves have changed dramatically since 1989 The media spotlight placed on Beijing during the spring of 1989 created repercussions that continue to affect how China is seen globally how it sees itself and how the Chinese outside the People s Republic see themselves The films and other texts included in this book represent a range of work by media artists working within China Hong Kong Taiwan Singapore and on transnational co productions involving those places The book also features media from other positions within the Chinese diaspora including Chinese America and work produced on China by non Chinese Highlighting questions of the circulation of images people and commodities the book explores the important interconnections involving questions of race ethnicity gender and sexuality on global screens Beginning and ending with Tian anmen and world image culture a portrait emerges of momentous change and persistent challenges facing media artists and filmmakers working within Greater China

Embodied Modernities Fran Martin, Ari Larissa Heinrich, 2006-07-31 From feminist philosophy to genetic science scholarship in recent years has succeeded in challenging many entrenched assumptions about the material and biological status of human bodies Likewise in the study of Chinese cultures accelerating globalization and the resultant hybridity have called into question previous assumptions about the boundaries of Chinese national and ethnic identity The problem of identifying a single or definitive referent for the Chinese body is thornier than ever By facilitating fresh dialogue between fields as diverse as the history of science literary studies diaspora studies cultural anthropology and contemporary Chinese film and cultural studies Embodied Modernities addresses contemporary Chinese embodiments as they are represented textually and as part of everyday life practices The book is divided into two sections each with a dedicated introduction by the editors The first examines Thresholds of Modernity in chapters on Chinese body cultures in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries a period of intensive cultural political and social modernization that led to a series of radical transformations in how bodies were understood and represented The second section on Contemporary Embodiments explores body representations across the People s Republic of China Taiwan and Hong Kong today
