STEP UP Walkability for Women in Milan Lily Scarponi, Andrea Gorrini, Gerardo Carpentieri, 2024-10-30 Safe and accessible walking environments are crucial for sustainable urban mobility However traditional walkability assessments often overlook how user characteristics particularly gender influence perceptions of safety The STEP UP project awarded by Fondazione Cariplo Grant No 2022 1643 addressed this gap by investigating how women in Milan experience nighttime walkability Women often navigate cities differently than men due to concerns about safety Fear of violence or harassment can lead to precautionary behaviors like avoiding certain areas or using alternative modes of transport at night These safety concerns significantly impact women's mobility and limit their access to essential services and social interactions The STEP UP project employed a multimodal approach to understand the factors influencing women's perceptions of safety while walking in Milan at night

Rethinking Genre in Contemporary Global Cinema Silvia Dibeltulo, Ciara Barrett, 2018-08-02 Rethinking Genre in Contemporary Global Cinema offers a unique wide ranging exploration of the intersection between traditional modes of film production and new transitional transnational approaches to film genre and related discourses in a contemporary global context This volume's content the films genres and movements explored as well as methodologies used in their analysis is diverse and crucially up to date with contemporary film making practice and theory Significantly the collection extends existing scholarly discourse on film genre beyond its historical bias towards a predominant focus on Hollywood cinema on the one hand and a tendency to treat other national cinemas in isolation and or as distinct systems of production on the other In view of the ever increasing globalisation and transnational mediation of film texts and screen media and culture worldwide the book recognises the need for film genre studies and film genre criticism to cast a broader indeed global scope The collection thus rethinks genre cinema as a transitional cross cultural and increasingly transnational global paradigm of film making in diverse contexts
