From Béarn to Southern Africa or The Amazing Destiny of Eugène Casalis Marie-Claude Mosimann-Barbier, 2014-06-02 The end of the 20th century was a time of post colonial repentance in the Western world On 23rd February 2005 a law was passed in France stressing the positive role of the French presence overseas triggering considerable controversy However the fascinating history of the French missionary Eugène Casalis illustrates that there are some cases where the French presence overseas is still perceived positively as shown by the commemorative stamps issued by the Kingdom of Lesotho in 1983 celebrating the 150th anniversary of the arrival of the first French missionaries in the country Of course the context was unique since France had no economic or political stakes in that part of the world and therefore the French missionary presence was totally apostolic and disinterested Eugène Casalis was born in Béarn at the foot of the Pyrénées in 1812 and remained deeply attached to his native land throughout his life In 1832 he was sent to Southern

Africa by the Paris Evangelical Missionary Society Unexpected circumstances led him to Basutoland present day Lesotho where he struck up an unfailing friendship based on mutual trust and esteem with the Sotho King Moshoeshoe In addition to his missionary task Casalis transcribed the language and contributed largely to the economic development of the country while concurrently supporting the King in his efforts to convince the British to help him fight Boer expansionism He gave invaluable diplomatic aid and advice to the King during the 23 years he spent in the country Back in France in 1855 he became the director of the House of Missions where he trained a number of young men to become missionaries His eldest son became a missionary to Lesotho and his eldest daughter married a missionary with whom she returned to Lesotho where she brought up a large family All this has contributed to making the name of Casalis well known in the Kingdom to this day To a certain extent Lesotho s accession to independence in 1966 can be perceived as a distant result of Casalis s work The present King Letsie 111 is a direct descendant of King Moshoeshoe
