Lahore Modern William J. Glover, Fifty years after the British annexed the Punjab and made Lahore its provincial capital the city once a prosperous Mughal center that had long since fallen into ruin was transformed British and Indian officials had designed a modern architecturally distinct city center adjacent to the old walled city administered under new methods of urban governance In Making Lahore Modern William J Glover investigates the traditions that shaped colonial Lahore In particular he focuses on the conviction that both British and Indian actors who implemented urbanization came to share that the material fabric of the city could lead to social and moral improvement This belief in the power of the physical environment to shape individual and collective sentiments he argues links the colonial history of Lahore to nineteenth century urbanization around the world Glover highlights three aspects of Lahore s history that show this process unfolding First he examines the concepts through which the British understood the Indian city and envisioned its transformation Second through a detailed study of new buildings and the adaptation of existing structures he explores the role of planning design and reuse Finally he analyzes the changes in urban imagination as evidenced in Indian writings on the city in this period Throughout Glover emphasizes that colonial urbanism was not simply imposed it was a collaborative project between Indian citizens and the British Offering an in depth study of a single provincial city Glover reveals that urban change in colonial India was not a monolithic process and establishes Lahore as a key site for understanding the genealogy of modern global urbanism William J Glover is associate professor of architecture at the University of Michigan

The English School (Volumes I and II) Malcolm Seaborne, Roy Lowe, 2022-07-30 Britain has a rich heritage of school buildings dating from the later Middle Ages to the present day While some of these schools have attracted the attention of architectural historians they have not previously been considered from the educational viewpoint Even schools of little or no architectural interest are important sociologically since the changing architecture of schools reflects changing ideas about how children should be educated and organized for teaching purposes Documentary material relating to education is often fragmentary and buildings may thus constitute the only real source of knowledge about the development of particular schools and can also throw light on general educational history Originally published in 1971 and 1977 these books are therefore not only a major contribution to architectural history but also a study in the development of educational ideas and practices from the fourteenth to the twentieth century

The English School Malcolm Seaborne, Roy Lowe, 2020-09-10 Britain has a rich heritage of school buildings dating from the later Middle Ages to the present day While some of these schools have attracted the attention of architectural historians they have not previously been considered from the educational viewpoint Even schools of little or no architectural interest are important sociologically since the changing architecture of schools reflects changing ideas about how children should be educated and organized for teaching purposes In this second volume originally published in 1977 Malcolm Seaborne and Roy Lowe carry the historical record into our own time Like its predecessor the volume studies the development of school architecture and its influence on the organization of the school and relates architectural questions to the educational and social forces which influence the design of schools The authors have chosen representative examples which illustrate the main trends in the development of school design and construction

Marketing Modernisms Peter Richmond, 2001-01-01 Architect teacher journalist town planner and cultural entrepreneur Sir Charles Reilly 1874 1948 was a leading figure of the early twentieth century British architectural scene Marketing Modernisms is the first book to take an in depth look at Reilly's career tracing his evolving architectural ethos via a series of case studies of his built work Among other issues the author considers Reilly's involvement in cultural enterprises such as the establishment of the Liverpool Repertory Theatre his journalism transatlantic links and town planning theories Reilly has been largely overlooked by writers of Modernist histories but this book restores him to deserved prominence Manchester John J. Parkinson-Bailey, 2000 This work offers an examination of Manchester's architecture from its origins to the present day rebuilding of the city centre It follows Manchester's growth from a village to what many see as England's second city

Cotswold Arts and Crafts Architecture Catherine Gordon, 2020-01-24 Between 1890 and 1930 Arts and Crafts architecture proliferated within the Cotswolds The range and quality of the buildings was exceptional as the region provided the perfect environment for the Movement's ideals and principles to flourish Arts and Crafts architects relished the robust vernacular precedent that served to focus their ideas and stimulate their creativity Its rational basis and dependence on craft skills had lasting relevance and it was no coincidence that the most influential aspect of their work was its emphasis on conservation This new and updated paperback edition provides a guide to the general characteristics of Cotswold Arts and Crafts structures with chapters on the various types of new commissions to be found as well as repair and remodeling projects The final chapter discusses the late flowering of Arts and Crafts work that occurred during the interwar period and beyond and the legacy of this important body of work at a local and national level
