Studies Chinese Narrative Poetry Dore Jesse Levy, 1988 Chinese Narrative Poetry brings a new perspective to some of China's best loved and most influential poems including Ts'ai Yen's Poem of Affliction Po Chu yi's Song of Everlasting Sorrow and Wei Chuang's recently discovered Song of the Lady of Ch'in Composed in the shih form during the Late Han Six Dynasties and T'ang periods these poems stand out as masterworks of narrative art Yet paradoxically their narrative qualities have been little recognized or explored in either traditional Chinese or modern Western scholarship The reason for this neglect is that Western literary traditions acknowledge their origins in epic poetry and thus take narrative for granted but the Chinese tradition is fundamentally based on lyric and does not admit of a separate category for narrative poetry Drawing on both classical Chinese critical works and the most recent Western contributions to the theory of narrative Levy shows how narrative elements developed out of the lyrical conventions of shih In doing so she accomplishes a double purpose guiding the modern reader to an understanding of the nature of narrative in Chinese poetry and shedding light on the ways in which Chinese poets adapted the devices of lyric to the needs of a completely different expressive mode Students of Chinese literature will welcome this pathbreaking study but Chinese Narrative Poetry will interest other scholars as well because it addresses questions of crucial importance for literary theory and comparative literature particularly the central issue of the applicability of Western critical concepts to non Western literature and culture Classical Chinese Poetry in Singapore Bing Wang, 2017-11-22 As the essence of Chinese traditional culture classical Chinese poetry in Singapore played a very important role in the social and cultural development of Singapore's Chinese community Numerous poems depicted the unique scenery of tropical rainforest and the customs with a Nanyang flavor recorded the various historical events from the colonial era the World War II to the independent nation and reflected the poets' multiple feelings This book sketches out the brief history of classical Chinese poetry in Singapore over a hundred years and focuses on the complex identity of poets from different generations the function of literary societies in the construction of cultural space and the influence of modern media on the development of classical Chinese poetry based on the text interpretation In addition the author attempts to define different types of poetry writing using diaspora literature and Sinophone literature The discussion of these topics will not only expand the research horizon of Chinese literature but also provide a meaningful reference to the studies of the worldwide Chinese overseas especially in Southeast Asia Studies in Chinese Poetry and Four Occidental Translators, 1915-1925 Inabelle Graves Coleman, 1946
