INTRODUCTION

by Alfred Kazin

GEORG LUKACS is probably the only Communist philosopher and literary critic in East Europe who still has the power to interest and to teach many readers in the West. This is due entirely to his intellectual gifts and to the systematically moral vision of history that he has retained as a writer despite his many servilities to Stalin and the hegemony of his own intellectual standards that he has in times past committed as a Communist leader. Lukacs owes his reputation entirely to the logical skill and intellectual vision with which, as a thinker rather than as a "poor intellectual," he has sought to illuminate the deepest aspects of Marxism. He gives the impression that no other Communist philosopher has done for some time—that despite official awards and mechanical formulas, here is an individual thinker who is fascinated by and thoroughly committed to Marxism as a philosophy, and who uses it for the intellectual pleasure and moral satisfaction that this gives him. Yet unlike the really noble figures in the early days of Communist history like Rosa Luxemburg, and brilliant writers like Leon Trotsky, who were truly revolutionary intellectuals committed to Marxism as a basic philosophy of human liberation, Lukacs is actually a mere "bourgeois" and academic humanist—who because of his inner detachment can stimulate and provoke us by his insights into a text and his formulations of an esthetic issue. The Luxemburgs and Trotskys, far more imposing and admirable figures, were in persons so much identified with their thought that they have become the heroes and martyrs of an embattled Western-appealing. Georg Lukacs remains simply useful and pertinent as a critic.

Although Lukacs has been called "the Soviet Marxist since Marx," the brilliance of his best work no more confirms the truth of Marxism as a social philosophy of history than the vindictive attacks on him by the party bosses in Hungary after

Studies In European Realism Intro By Alfred Kazin:

Realism and Naturalism Richard Daniel Lehan, 2005 In this intellectual and literary history of American British and Continental novels of realism and naturalism from 1850 to 1950 Richard Lehan argues that literary naturalism is a narrative mode that creates its own reality Employing this strategy allows and encourages intertextuality one novel talking or responding to another

Concepts of Realism Luc Herman, 1996 Examination of the critical discourse on the literary movement of realism Concepts of Realism surveys the central episodes in the development of the discourse surrounding realism from its inception with substantial reference to developments in the United States It concentrates on modernism and the avant garde as hostile to the realist movement but more positive critics of the concept such as Erich Auerbach and Joseph Stern also receive ample treatment

Marxism and the Moral Basis of Art Norman Arthur Fischer, 2025-02-14 This book develops a moral Marxist aesthetics based on the work of Georg Lukács Lucien Goldmann and Herbert Marcuse and grounded in the aesthetic theories of German Idealist philosophers such as Hegel and Schiller This moral aesthetics takes three forms The first is social and historical realism as in Lukács and Goldmann This is an aesthetics which fundamentally places the work of art within reality particularly social and historical reality The second aesthetics is utopian negation theory and the third is formalism The book pays special attention to Lukács concept of realistic historical novels which he develops through the analysis of historical novels by Walter Scott Honoré de Balzac and Heinrich Mann This theory of aesthetic realism is as the book argues grounded in Lukács reading of Hegel The book concludes by offering fresh interpretations of the moral basis of Goldmann's romantic realism in The Hidden God and Marcuse's emphasis on art as form and utopian negation of reality in The Aesthetic Dimension

The Poetics of Poesis Felicia Bonaparte, 2016-01-11 Examining novels written in nineteenth century England and throughout most of the West as well as philosophical essays on the conception of fictional form Felicia Bonaparte sees the novel in this period not as the continuation of eighteenth century realism as has commonly been assumed but as a genre unto itself Determined to address the crises in religion and philosophy that had shattered the foundations by which the past had been sustained novelists of the nineteenth century felt they had no real alternative but to make the world anew Finding in the new ideas of the early German Romantics a theory precisely designed for the remaking of the world these novelists accepted Friedrich Schlegel's challenge to create a form that would render such a remaking possible They spoke of their theory as poesis etymologically a making to distinguish it from the mimesis associated with realism Its purpose however was not only to embody as George Eliot put it in Middlemarch the idealistic in the real giving as faithful an account of the real as observation can yield but also to embody in that conception of the real a discussion of ideas that are its symbolic signification as Edward Bulwer Lytton described it in one of his essays It was to carry this double meaning that the nineteenth century novelist created Bonaparte concludes the language of mythical symbolism that came to be the norm for this form and she argues that it is in this doubled language that nineteenth century fiction must be read

Fascist Modernism Andrew Hewitt, 1993 Using the literary work of Filippo Tommaso Marinetti the founder of the Italian Futurist movement and an early associate of Mussolini the author explores the point of contact between a progressive aesthetic practice and a reactionary political ideology

Methodology of the Oppressed Chela Sandoval, 2013-11-30 In a work with far reaching implications Chela Sandoval does no less than revise the genealogy of theory over the past thirty years inserting what she terms U S Third World feminism into the narrative in a way that thoroughly alters our perspective on contemporary culture and subjectivity What Sandoval has identified is a language a rhetoric of resistance to postmodern cultural conditions U S liberation movements of the post World War II era generated specific modes of oppositional consciousness Out of these emerged a new activity of consciousness and language Sandoval calls the methodology of the oppressed This methodology born of the strains of the cultural and identity struggles that currently mark global exchange holds out the possibility of a new historical moment a new citizen subject and a new form of alliance consciousness and politics Utilizing semiotics and U S Third World feminist criticism Sandoval demonstrates how this methodology mobilizes love as a category of critical analysis Rendering this approach in all its specifics Methodology of the Oppressed gives rise to an alternative mode of criticism opening new perspectives on any theoretical literary aesthetic social movement or psychic expression
