Introduction to the Study of History Charles Victor Langlois, Charles Seignobos, 1912

The Pursuit of History John Tosh, 2015-02-11 This classic introduction to the study of history invites the reader to stand back and consider some of its most fundamental questions what is the point of studying history How do we know about the past Does an objective historical truth exist and can we ever access it In answering these central questions John Tosh argues that despite the impression of fragmentation created by postmodernism in recent years history is a coherent discipline which still bears the imprint of its nineteenth century origins Consistently clear sighted he provides a lively and compelling guide to a complex and sometimes controversial subject while making his readers vividly aware of just how far our historical knowledge is conditioned by the character of the sources and the methods of the historians who work on them The sixth edition has been revised and updated with key new material including a brand new chapter on public history sections on digitised sources and historical controversy discussion of topics including transnational history and the nature of the archive an expanded range of examples and case studies a comprehensive companion website providing valuable supporting material study questions and a bank of primary sources Lucid and engaging this edition retains all the user friendly features that have helped to make this book a favourite with both students and lecturers including marginal glosses illustrations and suggestions for further reading Along with its companion website this is an essential guide to the theory and practice of history

Doing History Mark Donnelly, Claire Norton, 2020-11-16

Doing History bridges the gap between the way history is studied in school or as represented in the media and the way it is studied at university level. History as an academic discipline has dramatically changed in recent decades and has been enhanced by ideas from other disciplines, the influence of postmodernism, and historians' incorporation of their own reflections into their work. Doing History presents the ideas and debates that shape how we do history today, covering arguments about the nature of historical knowledge and the function of historical writing, whether we can ever really know what happened in the past, what sources historians depend on, and the relative value of popular and academic histories. This revised edition includes new chapters on public history and activist histories. It looks at global representations of the past across the centuries and provides up-to-date suggestions for further reading, presenting the reader with a thorough and current introduction to studying history at an academic level as well as a pathway to progress this study further. Clearly structured and accessibly written, it is an essential volume for all students embarking on the study of history.

The Pursuit of History John Tosh, Sean Lang, 2006. The essential introduction to the practice of history, revised with new features to ensure it is even more popular with students. Tosh is consistently the best-selling Longman History textbook. The last 3 editions have achieved total sales of over 83 000 copies. The use of photos of significant people and events help make the text more lively. New layout and design enables readers to understand themes more quickly.
