Between Law and Politics Richard L. Pacelle, 2003 At the intersection of law and politics stands the U S Solicitor General Although even the informed public rarely thinks of the solicitor general in relation to the major issues that have challenged American society this office actually has considerable control over the cases the Supreme Court addresses To bring the Office of Solicitor General OSG out of the shadows and into the clear light of public attention Between Law and Politics looks at three hotly contested policy areas race gender and reproductive rights to see how the office balances the goals of the president Congress and the Supreme Court The OSG is charged with helping the Supreme Court build a coherent doctrine and imposing some stability on the law At the same time the solicitor general is a presidential appointee Deciding which cases to appeal arguing those cases before the Supreme Court and filing friend of the court briefs means the solicitor general plays an important role in furthering the policy objections of the current administration Therein lies the tension between law and politics that is at the heart of the calculations the solicitor general makes on a daily basis Using interviews with solicitors general and their staffs members of the Department of Justice and others and analyzing Supreme Court cases beginning with the Truman administration Richard Pacelle shows how the OSG balances the competing forces in its environment His analysis is undergirded by aggregate analysis of the data gathered This detailed and systematic study will be of great interest to those who study the Supreme Court the presidency and public policy It is unique in its close examination of a number of particular areas of law and the strength and persuasiveness of its analysis of the competing constituencies that face the Office of the Solicitor General The timeliness and controversial nature of the policy areas Pacelle examines give the book further importance to students of American politics The Death Penalty Roger Hood, Carolyn Hoyle, 2008 This new edition of a classic study assesses the global status of capital punishment As in previous editions this work draws on Roger Hood's experiences as consultant to the United Nations for the Secretary General's five yearly surveys of capital punishment as well as the latest literature from non governmental organizations and academic experts This edition examines significant developments around the world including the Chinese plan for the People's Supreme Court to review all death sentences and the abolition in the USA of the death penalty for offenders who committed murder while under the age of 18 Recent legal challenges to lethal injection as a form of execution are also examined This edition also includes an additional chapter on the role and influence of victims families and victim interest movements This volume shows how despite a number of set backs the movement to abolish the death penalty has continued to gather pace that international organizations and human rights treaties continue to put pressure on retentionist countries that further developments have been made in securing protection for those facing the death penalty in retentionist countries and that despite such advances in some parts of the world the range of crimes subject to the death penalty remains wide and the number of executions considerable This work engages with the latest debates on the realities of capital punishment with claims that the death penalty is a unique deterrent to murder and other serious crimes and contains expanded coverage of arguments about the role of public opinion in the debate on capital punishment Monthly Catalogue, United States Public Documents ,1990-05

International Organizations Before National Courts August Reinisch,2000-04-13 A radical empirical investigation of how national courts react to disputes involving international organizations Through comprehensive analysis of the attitudes and techniques of national courts and underlying political motives Professor Reinisch first describes various legal approaches that result in adjudication or non adjudication of disputes concerning international organizations Secondly he discusses policy issues pro and contra the adjudication of such disputes His study then scrutinizes the rationale for immunizing international organizations from domestic litigations especially the functional need for immunity and substantially debates the implications of a human rights based right of access to court on immunizing international organizations against national jurisdictions Finally he identifies contemporary trends seeking to ascertain whether a more flexible principle exempting certain types of disputes from domestic adjudication might substitute for the traditional immunity concept which would simultaneously guarantee the functioning and independence of international organizations without impairing private parties access to a fair dispute settlement procedure Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications United States.
