Teaching Archaeology In The Twentyfirst Century:

Teaching Archaeology in the Twenty-first Century Susan J. Bender, George S. Smith, 2000      Public Archaeology for the Twenty-First Century James F. Brooks, Jeremy M. Moss, 2025-06 In Public Archaeology for the Twenty First Century James F Brooks and Jeremy M Moss have collected essays from twenty seven scholars and community members to illuminate archaeological sites like ancient water courts at Mound Key in Florida the lost Black cemetery at Nashville Zoo fur trade era Fort Michilimackinac and Arizona s Gila Bend Internment Camp Each case offers readers an experience that enlivens the past while speaking to the present These essays wrestle with key tensions in the field of public archaeology What do we mean by public Is this site public facing or public participating Does public simply imply simplifications in scholarly rigor or does it require more creative attention to methods of analysis and interpretation to render stories sensible for those beyond the academy In the broadest sense these chapters explore the relationship between archaeological practice the representation of archaeology and history and our varied publics This requires not only consultation with varied stakeholders but also collaborative partnerships with descendant communities who have direct connections to the heritage resources we wish to share      The Scholarship of Teaching and Learning in Higher Education William E. Becker, Moya L. Andrews, 2004 This anthology represents the best papers presented at three conferences held by the Scholarship of Teaching and Learning programme at Indiana University      Assembling Archaeology Hannah Cobb, Karina Croucher, 2020-04-22 Assembling Archaeology provides a radical rethinking of the relationships between teaching researching digging and practicing as an archaeologist in the 21st century The issues addressed here are global and applicable wherever archaeology is taught practiced and researched At its heart this book addresses the undervaluation of teaching demonstrating that this affects the fundamentals of contemporary archaeological practice and is particularly connected to the lack of diversity in disciplinary demographics It proposes a solution which is grounded in a theoretical rethinking of archaeological teaching training and practice by advocating a holistic assemblage approach which challenges traditional power structures and the global marketization of the higher education system Drawing on insights from archaeology s current material turn this book approaches the discipline as a subject of investigation and offers a new perspective founded upon the notion of the learning assemblage which resituates teaching and learning as a central focus and contributes to broader discourses on critical pedagogy and rhizomatic learning It ultimately argues for a robust archaeological pedagogy that is rooted in and emergent from the material realities of the profession and will be valuable to everyone from academia to Cultural Resource Management CRM heritage professional to undergraduate student      Using and Curating Archaeological Collections S. Terry Childs, Mark S. Warner, 2020-01-01 All archaeologists have responsibilities to support the collections they produce yet budgeting for and managing collections over the length of a project and beyond is not part of most archaeologists training While this book in the SAA Press Archaeology in Action Series highlights major challenges that archaeologists and curators face with regard to collections it also stresses the values uses and benefits of collections It also demonstrates the continued significance of archaeological collections to the profession tribes and the public and provides critical resources for archaeologists to carry out their responsibilities Many lament that the archaeological record is finite and disappearing In this context collections are even more important to preserve for future use and this book will help all stakeholders do so

Images, Representations and Heritage Ian Russell, 2006-11-24 Recent archaeological theory has shown that images of the past have carried a particularly strong resonance within modern social groups This volume explores the immeasurable impact that the phenomenon of archaeology has had on the representation of the past in the modern world Modern society's archaeological imagination conceives of archaeology as a producer of images of the past which become representations of modern group identities If archaeology is utilized by public groups to construct and represent identities then what are archaeologists to do with that public The very fact that the public is interested in the past and in archaeological research is an opportunity for archaeology to engage that public Participation in the public's modern interest in archaeology however puts archaeology at risk The growing role of archaeology and heritage within the economics of tourism has led to a commodification of archaeological knowledge and experience for consumption This volume begins a discourse on the implications of performing archaeology in a world dominated by modern trends of mass production mass replication and representation of cultural forms and mass consumption of images of the past The contributors explore to what extent we are experiencing a crisis of representation of the past due to contemporary consumption of mass produced replicas simulations images and experiences of the past To work through this crisis the contributors in this volume are exploring opportunities for development within archaeological thought and practice Their arguments illustrate a move towards active participatory and poetic archaeological thought and practice Rather than focusing on what is produced through process artifacts monuments interpretive centers etc they are concerned with what they are doing about taking part about participating reflexively in the tradition of understanding and expressing understanding of the past This volume does not conjure up romantic beliefs about the project of archaeology but rather it signals a fundamental revision of archaeology not what it is but what it can do

Archaeological Field Schools Jane Eva Baxter, 2016-06-16 The field school is often described as a rite of passage among archaeologists They are considered essential for the appropriate training of students for academic or professional archaeological careers and are perhaps the only universal experience in an increasingly diverse array of archaeological career paths Jane Baxter's practical guide about how to run a successful field school offers archaeologists ways to maximize the educational and training benefits of these experiences She presents a wide range of pedagogical theories and techniques that can be used to place field schools in an educational as well as an archaeological context Baxter then offers a how to guide for the design of field schools including logistical legal and personnel issues as well as strategies for integrating research and teaching in the field Replete with checklists forms and cogent examples the author gives directors and staff a set of best practices for designing and implementing a school

Public Archaeology Nick Merriman, 2004-08-02 Scrutinizing in detail the relationship between archaeology heritage and the public this much needed volume explores public interest and participation in archaeology as a subject worthy of academic attention in its own right Examining case studies from throughout the world from North America Britain Egypt and Brazil to East Africa China and beyond Nick Merriman focuses on two key areas communication and interpretation and stakeholders Constant reports of new discoveries protests over the destruction of sites and debates over the return of artefacts such as the Elgin marbles or indigenous remains testify to an increasing public interest in archaeology For students and scholars of this archaeology and of its relationship with the public this will prove essential reading

History and Approaches to Heritage Studies Phyllis Mauch Messenger, Susan J. Bender, 2019-01-21 This volume contributes to scholarship on the theory and practice of heritage with a focus on pedagogy It is an important collection at the intersection of theory practice and teaching This work intervenes in a broader discourse on the relevance of archaeology in education and the tensions between education for democracy and justice and the skills based economy

Pedagogy and Practice in Heritage Studies Susan J. Bender, Phyllis M. Messenger, 2019-01-21 This volume challenges professors of anthropology both practicing and aspiring to incorporate pedagogies of engaged critical learning into their classrooms By showing how we can teach archaeology such that students realize that there are connections between our understandings of the past and the present and that archaeological methods can illuminate the values of contemporary people the case studies in this book create a framework for connecting archaeology curricula to heritage study

Revolutionizing Arts Education in K-12 Classrooms through Technological Integration Lemon, Narelle, 2015-04-30 Educational technologies are becoming more commonplace across the K 12 curriculum In particular the use of innovative digital technology is expanding the potential of arts education presenting new opportunities and challenges to both curricular design and pedagogical practice Revolutionizing Arts Education in K 12 Classrooms through Technological Integration brings together a variety of perspectives research and case studies that emphasize a pedagogical awareness of diverse learning styles while highlighting issues of ethics and equality across the educational landscape This timely publication is aimed at K 12 arts educators leading classrooms focusing on dance drama media music and the visual arts as well as pre service teachers museum and gallery educators policymakers and designers of academic curricula

The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and the Media in the 21st Century Lorna-Jane Richardson, Andrew Reinhard, Nicole Smith, 2024-06-20 The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and the Media in the 21st Century presents diverse international perspectives on what it means to be an archaeologist and to conduct archaeological research in the age of digital and mobile media This volume analyses the present day use of new and old media by professional and academic archaeology for leisure academic study and or public engagement and attempts to provide a broad survey of the use of media in a wider global archaeological context It features work on traditional paper media radio podcasting film television contemporary art photography video games mobile technology 3D image capture digitization and social media Themes explored include archaeology and traditional media archaeology in a digital age archaeology in a post truth era and the future of archaeology Such comprehensive coverage has not been seen before and the focus on 21st century concerns and media consumption practices provides an innovative and original approach The Routledge Handbook of Archaeology and the Media in the 21st Century updates the interdisciplinary field of media studies in archaeology and will appeal to students and researchers in multiple fields including contemporary public digital and media archaeology and heritage studies and management Television and film producers writers and presenters of cultural heritage will also benefit from the many entanglements shared here between archaeology and the contemporary media landscape

Ethics in Action Chip Colwell-Chanthaphonh, Julie Hollowell, Dru McGill, 2008-03-01 Based on the Society for American Archaeology's Annual Ethics Bowl this SAA Press book is centered on a series of hypothetical case studies that challenge the reader to think through the complexities of archaeological ethics The volume will benefit undergraduate and graduate students who can either use these cases as a classroom activity or as preparation for the Ethics Bowl as well as those who are seeking to better understand the ethical predicaments that face the discipline

Communities and Cultural Heritage Valerie Higgins, Diane Douglas, 2020-11-29 Communities and Cultural Heritage explores the relationship between communities their cultural heritage and the global forces that control most of the world's wealth and resources in today's world Bringing together scholars and heritage practitioners from nine countries this book contributes to the ongoing dialogue on community heritage by analysing impediments to full community participation The underminin of local communities comes at a high price As the chapters in this book demonstrate the knowledge embedded within traditional and Indigenous heritage creates communities that are more resilient to environmental and social stressors and more responsive to contemporary challenges such as climate change environmental degradation post disaster recovery and relocation Cultural heritage practices often fail to capitalise upon local knowledge and traditional skills and undervalue the potential contribution of local communities in finding creative and resourceful solutions to the issues they are confronting Arguing that the creation of successful community heritage project requires ongoing reflection on the aims methods financing and acceptable outcomes of projects the volume also demonstrates that the decolonization of Western focussed heritage practices is an ongoing process by which subaltern groups are brought forward and given a space in the heritage narrative Reflecting on trends that impact communities and heritage sites across different geographical regions Communities and Cultural Heritage will be of interest to academics students and practitioners of cultural heritage archaeology and anthropology around the world

Resources in Education, 2001 International Handbook of Historical Archaeology Teresita Majewski, David Gaimster, 2009-06-07 In studying the past archaeologists have focused on the material remains of our ancestors Prehistorians generally have only artifacts to study and rely on the diverse material record for their understanding of past societies and their behavior Those involved in studying historically documented cultures not only have extensive material remains but also contemporary texts images and a range of investigative technologies to enable them to build a broader and more reflexive picture of how past societies communities and individuals operated and behaved Increasingly historical archaeology refers not to a particular period place or a method but rather an approach that interrogates the tensions between artifacts and texts irrespective of context In short historical archaeology provides direct evidence for how humans have shaped the world we live in today Historical archaeology is a branch of global archaeology that has grown in the last 40 years from its North American base into an increasingly global community of archaeologists each studying their area of the world in a historical context Where historical archaeology started as part of the study of the post Columbian societies of the United States and Canada it has now expanded to interface with the post medieval archaeologies of Europe and the diverse post imperial experiences of Africa Latin America and Australasia The 36 essays in the International Handbook of Historical Archaeology have been specially commissioned from the leading researchers in their fields creating a wide ranging digest of the increasingly global field of historical archaeology The volume is divided into two sections the first reviewing the key themes issues and approaches of historical archaeology today and the second containing a series of case studies charting the development and current state of historical archaeological practice around the world This key reference work captures the energy and diversity of this global discipline today

Archaeology Is Anthropology S. Gillespie, 2012-04-17 Archaeology and anthropology have come a long way in the past half century and the 1950s thinking concerning the relationship between the two is increasingly considered irrelevant However the placement of archaeology within the discipline of anthropology has always been uneasy and was just as much a half century and more ago as it is now Is archaeology only now on the brink of divorce after decades of pleas for mutual respect and cooperation have finally proven inadequate Watson 1995 Is separation the only alternative left to sustain and further archaeology and to finally shake off a second class status to sociocultural anthropology that archaeologists have long contested Willey and Sabloff 1993 152 In what sense can we profess that archaeology is still anthropology This volume evaluates the reasons proffered for separation against those in favor of maintaining the identity and practice of archaeologists as anthropologists Arguments for the separation of archaeology from the discipline of which it has been a part for over a century take several different forms weighing various intellectual factors historical methodological and theoretical Recent changes in the practice of archaeology and in the organization of professional societies must also be considered

Archaeological Heritage Conservation and Management Brian J. Egloff, 2019-01-31 Archaeological heritage conservation is all too often highly conflicted Economic interests are often at the forefront of management decision making with heritage values given lesser if any consideration but when heritage places are managed with international principles in mind the sites stand out as evidencing superior outcomes

Archaeological Concepts, Techniques, and Terminology for American Prehistoric Lithic Technology Wm Jack Hranicky, 2013-06-03 Archaeological Concepts Techniques and Terminology for

American Prehistory Lithic Technology by Wm Jack Hranicky is a 600 page comprehensive publication that encompasses the study of American prehistoric stone tools and implements It is a look up volume for studying the material culture of prehistoric people and using its concepts and methods for researching this aspect of archaeology There are over 3000 entries which are defined and illustrated It also has an extensive set of references and an overview for the study of stone tools

Fieldwork in Humanities Education in Singapore Teddy Y.H. Sim, Hwee Hwang Sim, 2021-02-20 This book addresses the topic of humanities education fieldwork using the Singapore context as its primary focus It explores how the thought processes behind and techniques of various humanities and social sciences subjects can be applied to fieldwork in a variety of school and training settings In addition it discusses how humanities students and educators could stand to benefit from utilizing fieldwork techniques and skills used in archaeology and anthropology beyond undergraduates majoring in that discipline Finally the adoption of multidisciplinary approaches in fieldwork incorporating history geography literature and social studies demonstrate how these subjects can collaborate together in actual case studies to facilitate participants learning in the field
