Teaching Decision Making Instructional Practices Successful Teacher:

Teaching as Decision Making Marvin Pasch, 1991 Using Data in Schools to Inform Leadership and Decision Making Alex J. Bowers, Alan R. Shoho, Bruce G. Barnett, 2014-11-01 Our fifth book in the International Research on School Leadership series focuses on the use of data in schools and districts as useful information for leadership and decision making Schools are awash in data and information from test scores to grades to discipline reports and attendance as just a short list of student information sources while additional streams of data feed into schools and districts from teachers and parents as well as local regional and national policy levels To deal with the data schools have implemented a variety of data practices from data rooms to data days data walks and data protocols However despite the flood of data successful school leaders are leveraging an analysis of their school s data as a means to bring about continuous improvement in an effort to improve instruction for all students Nevertheless some drown some swim while others find success Our goal in this book volume is to bring together a set of chapters by authors who examine successful data use as it relates to leadership and school improvement In particular the chapters in this volume consider important issues in this domain including How educational leaders use data to inform their practice What types of data and data analysis are most useful to successful school leaders To what extent are data driven and data informed practices helping school leaders positively change instructional practice In what ways does good data collection and analysis feed into successful continuous improvement and holistic systems thinking How have school leadership practices changed as more data and data analysis techniques have become available What are the major obstacles facing school leaders when using data for decision making and how do they overcome them Teachers' Decision Making in EFL Classroom Zhang Youwen, 2017-07-17 Master s Thesis from the year 2017 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies language English abstract This research attempts to make its contribution to the growing sociolinguistic literature on classroom foreign second language learning and teaching It reports a comparative ethnographic inquiry into the similarities and differences of decision making and decision making process employed by two categories of teachers when approaching planning and instruction in the language classrooms in Chinese EFL teaching context And the thought provoking reasons for these similarities and differences have also been explored through the analysis of a range of broad research questions i e first how do two sets of teachers approach instructional decisions in the similar settings second can we have access to the similarities and differences between their instructional decisions third what factors might affect their pedagogical decisions and fourth are their instructional decisions consistent with their theoretical ideas Two categories of teachers consist of five Chinese TEL and five western teachers respectively who work in two similar teaching institutions in China The selected basic data gathered through a sequence of survey observations and particular information elicitation techniques consist of the running accounts of observation lesson plans and over fifty hours of audio recording of class sessions and interviews Through analysis of selected lesson excerpts and teachers comments on these data we identify similarities and differences in the classroom interpretation of the tasks and participation structures that these teachers adopted in their instruction and the underlying reasons behind them with reference to beliefs context prior experiences and culture The most general conclusion is that whether they emphasize accuracy or fluency and whether they prefer student centered instruction or teacher centered they tend to capitalize on these theories eclectically though they do differ in the extent to which they stress one focus or another Therefore much of a teacher s decision on planning and instruction resides in the way he she interprets the teaching setting and acts on the information from the ongoing classroom interactions In the last two chapters of this book the subject of teacher s decision making is explored from the perspective of soft power and critical discourse analysis so that teachers decision making research can be considered more deeply in the aspect of cognitive discourse and linguistic philosophy
