Risk Exposure and Risk Attitude of Home Owners in Fire Protection Investment Decisions Sieglinde K.

Fuller,1989 The report demonstrates that the Analytic Hierarchy Process AHP is a promising decision tool for evaluating fire protection systems for homeowners It lays the ground for development of specialized computer software for applying the AHP to decisions of individual homeowners Unlike conventional methods of economic analysis the AHP integrates quantifiable and qualitative variables The study explores how to include in the decision making process information on an individual s risk exposure and risk attitude information which is generally difficult or impossible to quantify By differentiating between risk exposure and risk attitude this application goes beyond the AHP s conventional treatment of risk The AHP is applied to the choice of purchasing smoke detectors a sprinkler system or a combination of the two Two hypothetical cases are assumed one in which the homeowner is risk taking and has lower than average risk exposure and one in which the homeowner is risk averse and has higher than average risk exposure Subjective probabilities of fire death injury and property loss are merged with more easily quantifiable benefit and cost criteria A method of pairwise comparisons provides the data to calculate priority vectors for the fire protection alternatives Risk Management in Project Organisations Peter
