Studies In Rural Capitalism In West Africa:

Studies in Rural Capitalism in West Africa Polly Hill, 1970-04-02 Study of rural area economic structures and mechanisms in West Africa with particular reference to ownership and capitalist entrepreneurship among indigenous peoples in Ghana and Nigeria covers economic implications and social implications of marketing activities connected with agriculture animal production and fishery Bibliography pp 160 to 165 maps and statistical tables Studies in Rural Capitalism in West Africa Polly Hill, 1977 An Economic History of West Africa A. G. Hopkins, 2014-09-19 This is the standard account of the economic history of the vast area conventionally known as West Africa Ranging from prehistoric time to independence it covers the former French as well as British colonies Colonialism in Africa 1870-1960: Volume 5, A Bibliographic Guide to Colonialism in Sub-Saharan Africa L. H. Gann, Peter Duignan, 1969 A comprehensive study of recent African history examining the political social and economic effects of colonialism A Survey of Agricultural Economics Literature Lee R. Martin, 1977 Pastoral Systems Research in Sub-Saharan Africa, 1983-01-01 The Nigerian Cocoa Industry and the International Economy in the 1930s Olisa Muojama, 2018-07-27 Periodic cycles and waves are characteristics of global capitalism The contraction in world trade during the Great Depression of the 1930s stands out as the strongest adverse shock to international trade in modern history This book uses the Nigerian cocoa industry's encounter with the world economy of the 1930s to knit together a gamut of themes ranging from the social formations of production to the forces of demand and supply and price fluctuations and stabilization as well as the protest movements against monopoly capitalism It examines the Nigerian cocoa industry within the international economy of the inter war years in order to demonstrate how the dynamics of the international capitalism of the 1930s such as the Great Depression and the fluctuations in commodity prices affected the cocoa industry and the peasant cocoa producers in colonial Nigeria It provides an interesting case study of the impact of international capitalism on the periphery economy as well as the consequences of economic dependence on the external market This book will be an indispensable resource for historians economists anthropologists and the general reader with an interest in the areas of international political economy depression economics world commodity trade and agriculture and its related industries The Geography of Tropical African Development A. M. O'Connor, 2014-06-28 This best selling textbook focuses on the changes in geographical patterns that have taken place in recent years i.e. on the geographical pattern of recent and current economic change The area covered includes the countries lying between the limits of the Tropic of Cancer and the Tropic of Capricorn In this second edition substantial changes have been made in every chapter in order to keep up to date in respect of both the geographical pattern of development and prevailing attitudes towards it The discussion is still largely confined to the twenty year period between 1956 and 1976 and to the economic component of development Beyond Ujamaa in Tanzania Goran Hyden, 2023-11-10 Beyond Ujamaa in Tanzania Underdevelopment and an Uncaptured Peasantry explores the challenges of development and underdevelopment in Africa with a focus on Tanzania's experience during its early socialist years. The book critiques the dominant ideologies of development whether capitalist or socialist as being rooted in Western industrial paradigms that often fail to address the realities of pre-capitalist African societies. It argues that the underdevelopment in Africa is not solely due to excessive penetration by global capitalism but also to capitalism's inability to dismantle the resilient pre-capitalist structures in many rural societies. The author highlights the role of the Tanzanian peasantry whose economic and social autonomy often resists the centralizing tendencies of modern development, presenting them not as mere appendages to the global economy but as key players with their own modes of production and unique societal structures. The book is grounded in over a decade of fieldwork and engagement with rural Tanzanian communities, enriched by the author's fluency in Swahili and deep involvement in local life. It argues for a more nuanced approach to studying African societies, one that goes beyond Western assumptions and models. By placing the peasant mode of production at the center of analysis, the study challenges conventional wisdom and suggests that the primary development challenge in Africa lies not with multinational corporations but with understanding and working within the dynamics of the smallholder peasant economy. The author also reflects on the limitations of conventional social science research and calls for greater involvement in the lived realities of the communities studied, emphasizing the need for research methods that are sensitive to local contexts and values. The book combines academic critique, field observations, and a focus on the epistemological biases of Western scholarship to present a compelling argument for rethinking development in Africa. This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program, which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice, reach, and impact. Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893, Voices Revived makes high-quality, peer-reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print-on-demand technology. This title was originally published in 1980.

Agricultural Commercialization And Government Policy In Africa J. Hinderink, J.J. Sterkenburg, 2022-03-26. First published in 1987. The object of this book is to show the nature and the constraints of the commercialization of agriculture in one of the world's major problem areas: Sub-Saharan Africa. Agricultural commercialization started here centuries ago, albeit in small pockets. It expanded sharply during the colonial period when the sub-continent became integrated into the world's economy. After independence, the nature of this integration did not structurally change and the basic characteristics of agricultural commercialization remained unaltered. After an analysis of this process during the colonial period, the study focuses on post-colonial government policies and on spatial variation in the commercialization of Africa's agriculture. Differences in environmental and socio-economic conditions, production performance, and government policy are dealt with on two geographical scales: first at the level of macro-regions and individual countries, and the second by means of case studies at the regional, village, and project level. Three fieldwork-based studies each centre on a specific aspect of the commercialization process in a wide variety of countries: viz. Swaziland, Sudan, Botswana, Ivory Coast, Mali, and Kenya. The final part of the book relates the subject of commercialization and rural development to Africa's present agricultural crisis
