The book evidences a few production problems based on a failure to proof the final computer printout thoroughly. And much more serious in my mind is the authors' reluctance to consult original sources. Much of the book is based on secondary material (although from respected and recognized scholars), and the authors disturbingly quote primary material from secondary sources without bothering to check its reliability or its context. The book is overly long. The basic thesis could easily have been explored in 150 pages. While I have major reservations about this particular work, on a more positive note, one hopes that it may presage the arrival of more worthy books by scholars from Ethiopia's ethnic periphery who will more convincingly challenge stale conceptions of the region.

The first deals with general studies of African art; its subdivisions are based on media. The second is focused on regional- and country-specific studies. Most of the entries are annotated and references to reviews are included with each monograph citation. Online Computer Library Catalog (OCLC) numbers are provided for all books cited in the bibliography and the OCLC numbers for serials are presented in a separate list found at the end of the volume. The contents of the cited sources are indexed by author and subject. The subject index is superb, providing comprehensive "access to objects, concepts, ethnic groups, museums, and individuals (artists, collectors and others)." In addition to serving as standard bibliography, The Arts of Africa offers a splendid resource for librarians interested in maintaining basic collec-
