Conlin, 2015-01-19 A mosquito infested and swampy plain lying north of the city walls Rome s Campus Martius or Field of Mars was used for much of the period of the Republic as a military training ground and as a site for celebratory rituals and occasional political assemblies Initially punctuated with temples vowed by victorious generals during the imperial era it became filled with extraordinary baths theaters porticoes aqueducts and other structures many of which were architectural firsts for the capitol This book explores the myriad factors that contributed to the transformation of the Campus Martius from an occasionally visited space to a crowded center of daily activity It presents a case study of the repurposing of urban landscape in the Roman world and explores how existing topographical features that fit well with the Republic s needs ultimately attracted architecture that forever transformed those features but still resonated with the area s original military and ceremonial traditions Imperium and Cosmos Paul Rehak, 2009-05-20 Caesar Augustus promoted a modest image of himself as the first among equals princeps a characterization that was as popular with the ancient Romans as it is with many scholars today Paul Rehak argues against this impression of humility and suggests that like the monarchs of the Hellenistic age Augustus sought immortality an eternal glory gained through deliberate planning for his niche in history while flexing his existing power Imperium and Cosmos focuses on Augustus's Mausoleum and Ustrinum site of his cremation the Horologium Solarium a colossal sundial and the Ara Pacis Altar to Augustan Peace all of which transformed the northern Campus Martius into a tribute to his major achievements in life and a vast memorial for his deification after death Rehak closely examines the artistic imagery on these monuments providing numerous illustrations tables and charts In an analysis firmly contextualized by a thorough discussion of the earlier models and motifs that inspired these Augustan monuments Rehak shows how the princeps used these on such an unprecedented scale as to truly elevate himself above the common citizen Topography

Plants, Politics and Empire in Ancient Rome Annalisa Marzano, 2022-10-13 The book investigates the cultural and political dimension of Roman arboriculture and the associated movement of plants from one corner of the empire to the other It uses the convergent perspectives offered by textual and archaeological sources to sketch a picture of large scale arboriculture as a phenomenon primarily driven by elite activity and imperialism Arboriculture had a clear cultural role in the Roman world it was used to construct the public persona of many elite Romans with the introduction of new plants from far away regions or the development of new cultivars contributing to the elite competitive display Exotic plants from conquered regions were also displayed as trophies in military triumphs making plants an element of the language of imperialism Annalisa Marzano argues that the Augustan era was a key moment for the development of arboriculture and identifies colonists and soldiers as important agents contributing to plant dispersal and diversity Urban Space and Aristocratic Power in Late Antique Rome Carlos Machado,2019-10-17 Between 270 and 535 AD the city of Rome experienced dramatic changes The once glorious imperial capital was transformed into the much humbler centre of western Christendom in a process that redefined its political importance size and identity Urban Space and Aristocratic Power in Late Antique Rome examines these transformations by focusing on the city s powerful elite the senatorial aristocracy and exploring their involvement in a process of urban change that would mark the end of the ancient world and the birth of the Middle Ages in the eyes of contemporaries and modern scholars It argues that the late antique history of Rome cannot be described as merely a product of decline instead it was a product of the dynamic social and cultural forces that made the city relevant at a time of unprecedented historical changes Combining the city s unique literary epigraphic and archaeological record the volume offers a detailed examination of aspects of city life as diverse as its administration public building rituals housing and religious life to show how the late Roman aristocracy gave a new shape and meaning to urban space identifying itself with the largest city in the Mediterranean world to an extent unparalleled since the end of the Republican period Shopping in Ancient Rome Claire Holleran,2012-04-26 This volume provides the first comprehensive account of the retail network in ancient Rome and investigates the diverse means by which goods were sold to consumers in the city Holleran places Roman retail trade within the wider context of its urban economy and explores the critical relationship between retail and broader environmental factors Encyclopedia of the History of Classical Archaeology Nancy Thomson de Grummond,2015-05-11 With 1 125 entries and 170 contributors this is the first encyclopedia on the history of classical archaeology It focuses on Greek and Roman material but also covers the prehistoric and semi historical cultures of the Bronze Age Aegean the Etruscans and manifestations of Greek and Roman culture in Europe and Asia Minor The Encyclopedia of the History of Classical Archaeology includes entries on individuals whose activities influenced the knowledge of sites and monuments in their own time articles on famous monuments and sites as seen changed and interpreted through time and entries on major works of art excavated from the Renaissance to the present day as well as works known in the Middle Ages As the definitive source on a comparatively new discipline the history of archaeology these finely illustrated volumes will be useful to students and scholars in archaeology the classics history topography and art and architectural history
