Structures in Architecture Education
Prabhjot Singh Sugga, 2024-01-02 There has been a historical discord over curriculum and teaching practices for structures courses in architectural education as students are disinterested and not able to integrate learnings from such courses into their design solutions. The research in the book Structures in Architecture Education: Teaching and Integrating in Design involves the development of an assessment tool by a comparative analysis of past frameworks to understand integration that assesses three dimensions of integration of structures: performance, physical and visual against three building systems: exterior, interior and services. Around 27-30 samples are selected for each year from first to fourth from three institutions. Data for pedagogy and curriculum are also collected that is used to analyse the results from assessment of samples. In the second part of this book, structural equation modelling is used to analyse if the studio is the preferred mode of learning structures.

Linking Architecture and Education Anne Taylor, 2009-05-16 For the past forty years Anne Taylor has studied how schools classrooms playgrounds homes museums and parks affect children and how they learn As a result she has developed a holistic sustainable philosophy of learning environment design She argues persuasively that architects must integrate their design knowledge with an understanding of the developmental needs of learners while at the same time educators parents and students must broaden their awareness of the built natural and cultural environment to maximize the learning experience In other words schools and other environments can themselves become three dimensional textbooks When architects are cognizant of newer models of education and educators view the environment as more than a box in which to teach prescribed lessons the result is an informed architecture that enables children to discover the power of their own learning The book presents numerous examples of dynamic designs that are the result of interdisciplinary understanding of place Taylor includes designer perspectives forums derived from commentary by outside contributors involved in school planning and a wealth of photographs of thoughtful and effective solutions to create learning environments from comprehensive design criteria Because the concept of school is enlarged to a community campus the book also spawns a new model of teaching and learning This book is essential reading for educators architects and community members who are anxious to transform education in America and elsewhere Anne Taylor is the most outstanding educator leading proponent and practitioner in the three dimensional textbook field Her work is the finest resource available for connecting students young and old to their learning environments and visa versa Edward E Kirkbride NCARB REFP Before Western man divided the universe into discrete subject matter areas the order in the universe was and still is both interdisciplinary and holistic The branching of trees spiraling of shells meandering of streams and the radial designs of flowers for example represent an analogy of mathematics biology and art The current artificial separation of subject matter is in contrast to the way the world is constructed and the way children perceive it Architecture and the study of the built natural and cultural environment synthesize the world of material things and the world of ideas Further more it helps us to realize that we are a part of not apart from the environment This book is a tool and a gift to designers educators and students everywhere to assist them in seeing the meaning behind all that we view and use for living on earth To know our precious relationship to our surroundings is the intent of this book In this way life is a work of art and each of us is an artist Anne Taylor

Urban Planning Education Andrea I. Frank,Christopher Silver,2017-06-26 This book examines planning education provision and approaches globally through a comparative and longitudinal perspective It explores the emergence of planning education in the 20th century with its rich variation and yet a remarkable degree of cross fertilization Each of the sections of the book is framed by an overview essay which has been prepared by the editors to provide the reader with a critical exposure to relevant scholarship drawing on the detailed case studies and exploratory essays on key issues in planning education The first part of this volume focuses on the emergence of planning education programs in the twentieth century as a way to understand the current planning education environment Then we explore how education in urban regional and spatial planning has developed in different ways in different countries and continents The final part of this volume aims to envision how planning can adapt and develop to remain relevant to the development of human environments in the 21st century Urban planning education has become a pervasive practice throughout the world as urbanization and development pressures have increased over the past half century and as demand increased for professional trained experts to guide those processes The approaches vary widely based in part upon the discipline from which the planning program developed as well as the context specific challenges within the country or region where the program resides
