Pugalee,2015-01-22 Success in mathematics and science requires students to process and comprehend various forms of text yet many teachers feel ill equipped to promote the development of literacy skills within the context of developing conceptual understanding of mathematics and science Many content area literacy resources do not provide an adequate development of the complexities involved in dealing with mathematics and science texts This work presents important background information on the reading and process and classroom tested strategies which include implementation information and ideas for modifying the strategy to diverse needs These classroom examples support teachers and educational specialists as they design instructional experiences to facilitate both students conceptualization of important subject area content and the tools necessary for students to develop the literacy skills necessary to be successful in today s text rich educational learning environments African-American Teens Discuss Their Schooling Experiences Gail L. Thompson,2002-01-30 For decades researchers and policymakers have grappled with the issue of the underachievement of African American students An age old problem has been that these students on average lag behind their peers of other racial ethnic groups in math science and reading Recently California like some other states has implemented a high stakes standardized testing program that has revealed that when test scores are disaggregated along racial ethnic lines the scores of African American students continue to trail those of their peers The study described in this book was undertaken in an effort to uncover schooling practices that are advantageous or detrimental to the achievement of African American students The study was based on interviews and questionnaire results from nearly 300 African American high school seniors Most of these students resided in a region that had a low college attendance rate and a high child poverty rate The students were given an opportunity to discuss numerous issues pertaining to their schooling experiences including teacher attitudes and expectations the curriculum homework practices the quality of services provided by their high school counselors racism at school school safety parental involvement and their early reading habits and attitudes about reading In addition to quantitative results most chapters include detailed narratives describing the elementary and secondary schooling experiences of the interviewees

Teaching Children to Read and Write Robert B. Ruddell, 2006 Teaching Children to Read and Write takes an evidence based approach to the theories and methods needed to become an effective literacy teacher The fourth edition emphasizes the characteristics of the effective literacy teacher one who engages motivates and helps his her students The effective literacy teacher also relies on teaching strategies that are up to date and proven by research to work The effective literacy teacher must also understand the essential foundations of literacy teaching and Teaching Children to Read and Write presents comprehensive information about the theories approaches data and standards needed to ensure that students are well prepared to teach literacy in today s educational environment

The Power of One Gail L. Thompson, 2010 Combining first person narratives personal growth exercises and informational text this staff development resource helps educators address the mind sets that can impede their progress with African American students
